Stranitsy Zhizni:

The Writer in Petrograd and the House of Arts Martha Weitzel Hickey, 2009-06-16 Founded by Maksim Gorky and Kornei Chukovsky in 1919 and disbanded in 1922 the Petrograd House of Arts occupied a crucial moment in Russia's cultural history. By chronicling the rise and fall of this literary landmark, this book conveys in greater depth and detail than ever before a significant but little studied period in Soviet literature. Poised between Russian culture's past and her Soviet future, between pre and post Revolutionary generations, this once lavish private home on the Nevsky Prospekt housed as many as fifty-six poets, novelists, critics, and artists at one time during a period of great social and political turbulence. And as such, Hickey contends, the House of Arts served as a crucible for a literature in transition. Hickey shows how the House of Arts, though virtually ignored by Soviet-era cultural historians, played a critical role in shaping the lively literature of the next decade, a literature often straddling the border between fiction and non-fiction. Considering prose writers such as Yevgeny Zamyatin, Olga Forsh, the Serapion Brothers group, Viktor Shklovsky, Boris Eikhenbaum, as well as poets including Alexander Blok, Nikolay Gumilev, Anna Radlova, Osip Mandelstam, and Vladislav Khodasevich, she traces the comings and goings at the House of Arts, the meetings and readings and lectures, and most of all, the powerful influence of these interactions on those who briefly lived and worked there. In her work, the Petrograd House of Arts appears for the first time in all its complexity and importance as a focal point for the social and cultural ferment of the day and a turning point in the direction of Russian literature and criticism.

Defending the Motherland Lyuba Vinogradova, 2018-04-03 Plucked from every background and led by an NKVD Major, the new recruits who boarded a train in Moscow on October 16, 1941, to go to war had much in common with millions of others across the world. What made the members of the 586th Fighter Regiment, the 587th Heavy Bomber Regiment, and the 588th Regiment of light night bombers unique was their gender: the Soviet Union was creating the first all-female active combat units in modern history. Drawing on original interviews with surviving airwomen, Lyuba Vinogradova weaves together the untold stories of the female Soviet fighter pilots of the Second World War. From that first train journey to the last tragic disappearance, Vinogradova's panoramic account of these women's lives follows them from society balls to unmarked graves, from landmark victories to the horrors of Stalingrad. Battling not just fearsome Aces of the Luftwaffe but also patronizing prejudice from their own leaders, women such as Lilya Litvyak and Ekaterina Budanova are brought to life by the diaries and recollections of those who knew them and who watched them live, love, fight, and die.

Inside Lenin's Government Lara Douds, 2018-02-22 Lara Douds examines the practical functioning and internal political culture of the early Soviet government cabinet the Council of People's Commissars Sovnarkom under Lenin This study elucidates the process by which Sovnarkom's governmental decision making authority was transferred to Communist Party bodies in the early years of Soviet power and traces the day to day operation of the supreme state organ The book argues that Sovnarkom was the principal executive body of the early Soviet government until the Politburo gradually usurped this role during the Civil War Using a range of archival source material Lara Douds reinterprets early Soviet political history as a period where fledgling Soviet rather than simply Communist Party power was attempted but ultimately failed when pressures of Civil War and socio economic dislocation encouraged the centralising and authoritarian rather than democratic strand of Bolshevism to predominate Inside Lenin's Government explores the basic mechanics of governance by looking at the frequency of meetings types of business discussed processes of decision making and the administrative backdrop as well as the key personalities of Sovnarkom It then considers the reasons behind the shift in executive power from state to party in this period which resulted in an abnormal situation where as Leon Trotsky commented in 1923 leadership by the party gives way to administration by its organs
