Teacher Quality 2.0 Frederick M. Hess, Michael Q. McShane, 2014 Argues that much cutting edge work in teacher quality is happening in non traditional environments such as online or hybrid learning where teacher roles can be very specialized or in charter schools that are experimenting with new approaches to staffing The editors examine fruitful innovations taking place on the margins of the traditional education sector that promise to improve teacher quality in a more strategic way examines teacher agency in implementing English as a Foreign Language EFL curriculum reform in the Chinese university context It theorizes the concept of teacher agency from a sociocultural theory perspective and draws on a study conducted in a conservative and less developed area in China The book uses Engeström's activity theory and Vygotsky's concept of the Zone of Proximal Development ZPD to understand the nature and extent of teacher agency in adapting one's teaching with respect to beliefs knowledge and instructional practices The study concludes that curriculum reform in China needs to shift from reliance on top down policies to bottom up implementation that mobilizes local understandings and practices One of the implications of this study is that transformative teacher education programs aimed at developing teacher pedagogical agency require that teachers have ongoing opportunities to design develop and evaluate curriculum based mediational means

Changing Patterns of Power Thomas S. Popkewitz, 1993-01-01 The reform of teacher education has been a focal point of state action in industrial countries since the early 1980s Given this convergence of educational and governmental activity the studies presented here are a significant departure from conventional discourse on reform because they explore the ways that social regulation and political power operate through the processes of educational reform This book considers the reform of teacher education to be an integral part of the larger system of social regulation that takes place in the arena of schooling

Reforms in teacher education involve complex sets of interactions among and within social institutions. These interactions help shape power relations and patterns of social regulation that operate through state university and school interactions. Nevertheless, the patterns that give direction and value to teacher education are not easily discerned in public discussions of educational change. Instead, many of the most important regulatory aspects of teacher education reform are partly obscured by a public discourse that focuses attention on formal responses to socioeconomic events and that tends to divert critical attention away from the power that is exercised and the interests that are served during reform. This volume presents studies of reform in Australia, Finland, Iceland, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, the United Kingdom, and the United States. Although these countries differ in their political and social histories, rates and levels of industrialization, and patterns of educational practice, there is a striking commonality in both the strategies that are employed to reform teacher education and in the nature of social regulation that is a concomitant of reform.

The Crisis In Teacher Education Anthony Adams, Witold

Tulasiewicz, 2005-06-21 Teacher education is continually undergoing change, and this book takes a close look into the current status. It examines the history of teacher preparation, the role of the employer, and the aims of education, giving a critical review of the present climate where changes in several European countries are underway. They address the question of why the changes are being made now and conclude that such changes, particularly in the UK, are ideological as opposed to quality-based. New proposals and legislation in the European Union's countries of Britain, France, Germany, and Portugal are considered from a comparative perspective alongside Poland and the United States, the latter also experiencing change but for different reasons. Aimed at all readers interested in the role of education in Europe, this text should also appeal to students and lecturers in education in Europe and to the informed general reader interested in the state of education today.

Reform of Teacher Education in the Asia-Pacific in the New Millennium Y.C. Cheng, King Wai Chow, Magdalena Mo Ching Mok, 2007-09-29 In facing the challenges of rapid globalization, IT intensification, international competition, and local demands for developments, educators, scholars, and leaders in the Asia Pacific region and other parts of the world are concerned with reforms of teacher education for the future of education in the new millennium. This edited volume aims to provide a global sharing of the major trends and characteristics of the ongoing teacher education reforms in this region and the major challenges and issues raised in policy formulation and reform implementation. With a total of 14 chapters prepared by 18 scholars from nine educational systems (Australia, Canada, China, Hong Kong, India, Japan, Korea, Malaysia, and United States) in the Asia Pacific region, the book highlights the trends and challenges in the reform of teacher education in the region generally and in eight educational systems in particular. Most chapters directly or indirectly address the latest issues of teacher education and development at operational site and macro levels from a national or regional perspective. This volume is of interest to teachers, teacher educators, researchers, policymakers, and other stakeholders in all developed and developing countries.
