Abstract. In recent years, with China's growing economic power, it gets increasing high status in the world and thereby "Chinese fever" has also risen. In this context, the demand for TCFL (Teaching Chinese as a Foreign Language) teachers is increasing, and the quality and requirements of overseas teachers are also increasing. However, the quality of Chinese teachers at home and abroad is currently uneven, and thus how to solve this problem has become a difficult problem for cultivating TCFL teachers. Based on the current situation of Chinese teachers in the overseas teaching, this paper analyzed the problems in the overseas teaching of TCFL teachers and put forward the quality and requirements of overseas TCFL teachers, with the purpose to promote the cultivation of qualified TCFL teachers for the teaching of Chinese in foreign countries.

Keywords: teachers; overseas teaching; problems; strategy analysis.

1. Problems of Chinese TCFL Teachers in Overseas Teaching

1.1 Lack of Language Ability

The education in China is mainly exam-oriented. The teaching and learning of foreign language just focus on the knowledge on the textbook and students are generally poor in oral language, which has seriously affected the normal communication between Chinese teachers and foreign students. This results in the fact that Chinese teachers cannot do well in communicating and teaching and foreign students cannot understand Chinese language and culture. Such two-way pernicious influences will not only lead to the decline of teaching quality, but also hinder the spread of Chinese language and Chinese culture.

The training organizations for TCFL teachers only highlight the Putonghua Proficiency Test. They focus on the test content and rarely-used Chinese characters, but do not carry out professional training in everyday expressions. Many teachers even take certain dialects in their speaking, and this is very harmful to the teaching and dissemination of Chinese language.

2. Inadequate Reserve of Chinese Culture Knowledge and Skills

Culture represents the foundation of a country. In Chinese language teaching, TCFL teachers can show elegant Chinese bearing to the outside world if they master certain Chinese culture. Language and culture are indivisible. Foreign students must also come into contact with Chinese culture when they are learning Chinese, and thus teachers must have sufficient cultural attainments. But many teachers ignore this important element. They think that it is enough if they can learn Chinese well to teach knowledge about Chinese. Some teachers even cannot make clear China's dynasties, and this is harmful to the image of China.

Many teachers think they could cope with overseas teaching as long as they obtain the teaching qualification and speak Mandarin fluently. But TCFL teachers must be equipped with some professional skills. A qualified TCFL teacher must know how to make the classroom atmosphere active, because blindly instilling knowledge will make students feel bored, resulting in inefficient classroom teaching and poor classroom performance. An active classroom atmosphere allows students to learn Chinese in a relaxed and enjoyable environment. Interesting classes allow students to feel that Chinese is nice, so that they will learn more actively [1]. There are many ways to activate the classroom atmosphere, such as teaching students to perform Chinese programs, sing Chinese songs and tell Chinese stories. In addition to activate the classroom atmosphere, these activities are
