The British Diplomatic Service Raymond Jones, 2006-01-01 Previous accounts of the British Foreign Office have left the impression that the diplomatic service was an insignificant appendage of the Foreign Office Jones's study redresses the balance demonstrating that the diplomatic service was an equal if not senior partner with the Foreign Office in the execution of British foreign policy After a brief introduction to the history of diplomacy Jones follows the changes wrought in the service by the intense political and social pressures of the nineteenth century Against the background of the growth of the Victorian Civil Service and the emergence of Great Britain as a world power in the age of the Pax Britannica Jones traces the demise of the family embassy and of a diplomacy deeply rooted in patronage and the corresponding development of the professional bureaucratic elite of the Edwardian era In case studies of the Near Eastern crisis of 1839-41 the Mason Sliddell Affair of the American Civil War and the Dogger Bank Crisis of 1904 the volume sets forth the working environment of an embassy both before and after the communications revolution following upon the introduction of the telegraph Also examined are the social structures of the unreformed diplomatic service and the later professional service The volume will be of interest to historians of diplomacy and foreign policy to political scientists and to students of social change Improving services and support for people with dementia Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, Edward Leigh, 2008-01-24 This report from the Committee of Public Accounts follows on from an NAO report HC 604 session 2006-07 ISBN 9780102945614 and examines the prevalence and costs of dementia diagnosis and early intervention access to and quality of support services and experiences of people with dementia in hospital and care homes Dementia is a term for a range of progressive terminal organic brain diseases It affects about 560 000 people in England and costs the economy some 14 billion a year The Committee has set out a number of conclusions and recommendations including that dementia has not been an NHS priority though following the NAO report the Department of Health is developing a National Dementia Strategy that there is no single individual with responsibility or accountability for improving dementia services that between a half and two thirds of people with dementia never receive a formal diagnosis that there is poor awareness amongst the public and some professionals of dementia that people with dementia and their carers should be given a single health or social care professional contact point to improve the co ordination of their care service that between half and two thirds of all carers do not receive the carer's assessment to which they are entitled that 62 per cent of care home residents are currently estimated to have dementia but less than 28 per cent of care home places are registered to provide specialist dementia care that hospital care for people with dementia is often not well managed increasing the risk of longer hospital stays admission to a care home and a deterioration in the patient's health

The Sociology of the Health Service Michael Bury, 2002-09-11 The Sociology of the Health Service responds directly to the need to develop a sociological analysis of current health policy Topics covered vary from privatisation and health service management to health education and the politics of professional power Also included is an historical review of sociology's contributions to health policy and proposals for an agenda for sociological health policy research in the 1990s

Rehabilitation Sally Davis, 2006-01-01 Provides an overview of models and theories relevant to rehabilitation identifying the use of models in practice to facilitate interdisciplinary teamwork and to enable a client centred approach The approach is essentially practical employing case studies and questions for practice to aid the application of the theory to clinical practice

The Social Geography of Medicine and Health (RLE Social & Cultural Geography) John Eyles, Kevin Woods, 2014-01-10 This book originally published in 1983 drawing material from Europe the USA the Soviet Union and the Developing World provides a comprehensive review of the key issues in medical geography It sets the central problems of medical geography in a broad social context as well as in a spatial one and analyses changing conceptions of health and illness in detail It also explores the pathological relationship between people and their environment and illustrates that social phenomena form spatial patterns which provide a good starting point for the examination of the relationship between medicine health and society

Britain and the Regency of Tripoli Sara M. ElGaddari, 2022-12-15 By the early 1820s British policy in the Eastern Mediterranean was at a crossroads Historically shaped by the rivalry with France the course of Britain's future role in the region was increasingly affected by concern about the future of the Ottoman Empire and fears over Russia's ambitions in the Balkans and the Middle East The Regency of Tripoli was at this time establishing a new era in foreign and commercial relations with Europe and the United States Among the most important of these relationships was that with Britain Using the National Archive records of correspondence of the British consuls and diplomats from 1795 to 1832 and within the context of the wider Eastern Question this book reconstructs the Anglo Tripolitanian relationship and argues that the Regency played a vital role in Britain's imperial strategy during and after the Napoleonic Wars Including the perspective of Tripolitanian notables and British diplomats it contends that the activities of British consuls in Tripoli and the networks they fostered around themselves reshaped the nature and extent of British imperial activity in the region
