William Kerrigan

The Circe Complex:

The Circe Complex Desmond Cory, 1980 The Sacred Complex William Kerrigan, 1983 This reading of Milton juxtaposes the poet's theology and Freud's account of the Oedipus complex in ways that yield both new understanding of Milton and a model for psychoanalytic interpretation of literature The book ranges widely through the art and life of Milton including extensive discussions of his theological irregularities and the significance medical and symbolic he assigned to his blindness Kerrigan analyzes the oedipal aspect of Milton's religion examines the nature of the Miltonic godhead studies Milton's analogies linking human angelic and cosmic bodies and explores Milton's symbolism of home In a commanding demonstration Kerrigan delineates how the great epic and the psyche of its author bestow meaning on each other The Mindscapes of Art Roy Huss, 1986 In this original study Roy Huss utilizes less orthodox theories and recent advances in developmental psychology to illustrate the wealth of possibilities available to the critic who understands the artist as striving toward the integration of form and feeling It advances in depth analysis of a variety of literary dramatic and cinematic works including Sophocles Oedipus plays John Osborne's Look Back in Anger John Knowles's A Separate Peace and Rilke's The Notebooks of Malte Laurids Brigge Gods of Play Kristiaan Aercke, 1994-01-01 This book studies the close connections between politics culture art and philosophy in seventeenth century Europe As an emblem of this interrelationship the author has chosen the phenomenon of the splendid festive performance of spectacular plays and operas given at absolutist courts in Rome Madrid Paris Versailles and Vienna between 1631 and 1668 Gods of Play fills voids in the scholarly literature on the seventeenth century on absolutism on courtly theatricality and on the philosophy of play Aercke demonstrates that such splendid performances were not just frivolous entertainment for the courtly class but were serious activities with far ranging political consequences Belted Heroes and Bound Women Michael J. Bennett, 1997 This clearly written beautifully illustrated book introduces a previously unrecognized Homeric theme the belted hero and argues for its lasting historical literary and archaeological significance The belted hero fuses king warrior charioteer and athlete into a supreme image of political power The special heroic warrior's belts zosteres worn by Agamemnon Menelaos and Nestor served as unimpeachable visual emblems of their exalted positions of rank The feminine counterpart or zone presents the woman as superior in the competitive arena of love Bennett shows that the belted hero represented an ideology attractive to wealthy landowners their oikoi and inter family connections He suggests that the communal spirit of the hoplite phalanx attempted to appropriate the belted hero ideal even while undermining its ethos of personal honor Bennett also makes several important iconographic interpretations that provide fundamentally new insights into early Greek oral epic compositional techniques conceptions of time and cosmological structure Belted Heroes and Bound Women will be of interest to scholars and students of early Greek art history or literature Joyce, Bakhtin, and the Literary Tradition M. Keith Booker, 1995 Illuminates James Joyce's relationship to his literary predecessors in new and important ways Large Space Structures & Systems in the Space Station Era, 1991 Joycean Frames Thomas Burkdall, 2018-02-02 Employing concepts from film theory this much needed study explores in depth the cinematic quality of James Joyce's fiction from Dubliners to Finnegan's Wake

Imagining Home Susan Elizabeth Farrell, 2017 War has often been seen as the domain of men and thus irrelevant to gender analysis and American writers have frequently examined war according to traditional gender expectations that boys become men by going to war and girls become women by building a home Yet the writers discussed in this book complicate these expectations since their female characters often take part directly in war and especially since their male characters repeatedly imagine domestic spaces for themselves in the midst of war Chapters on Hemingway and the First World War Kurt Vonnegut and the Second World War and Tim O'Brien and the Vietnam War place these writers in their particular historical and cultural contexts while tracing similarities in their depiction of gender relationships imagined domestic spaces and the representability of trauma The book concludes by examining post 9/11 American literature probing what happens when the front lines actually come home to Americans While much has been written about Hemingway Vonnegut O'Brien and even 9/11 literature separately this study is the first to bring them together in order to examine views about war gender and domesticity over a hundred year period It argues that 9/11 literature follows a long tradition of American writing about war in which the domestic and public realms are inextricably intertwined and in which imagined domestic spaces can provide a window into representing wartime trauma an experience often thought to be unrepresentable or incomprehensible to those who were not actually there SUSAN FARRELL is Professor of English at the College of Charleston Geography, Topography, Landscape Marios Skempis, Ioannis Ziogas, 2013-12-12 By introducing a multifaceted approach to epic geography the editors of the volume wish to provide a critical assessment of spatial perception of its repercussions on shaping narrative as well as of its discursive traits and cultural contexts Taking the genre specific boundaries of Greco-Roman epic poetry as a case in point a team of international scholars examines issues that lie at the heart of modern criticism on human geography Modern and ancient discourse on space representations revolves around the nation shaping force of geography the gendered dynamics of landscapes the topography of isolation and integration the politics of imperialism globalization environmentalism as well as the power of language and narrative to turn space into place One of the major aims of the volume is to show that the world of the Classics is not just the origin but the essence of current debates on spatial constructions and reconstructions
