Social Problems Brian J. Jones, Bernard J. Gallagher, Joseph A. McFalls, 1988-01-01 Hate Crimes Valerie Jenness, Kendal Broad, In addressing a timely set of questions about the politics and dynamics of inter group violence manifest as discrimination this volume explores such issues as why injuries against some groups of people Jews people of color gays and lesbians and sometimes women and those with disabilities capture notice while similar acts of bias motivated violence against others continue to go unnoticed Throughout the authors develop a compelling argument about the social processes through which new social problems emerge social policy is developed and diffused and new cultural forms are institutionalized Making Hate A Crime Valerie Jenness, Ryken Grattet, 2001-08-15 Violence motivated by racism anti Semitism misogyny and homophobia weaves a tragic pattern throughout American history Fueled by recent high profile cases hate crimes have achieved an unprecedented visibility Only in the past twenty years however has this kind of violence itself as old as humankind been specifically categorized and labeled as hate crime Making Hate a Crime is the first book to trace the emergence and development of hate crime as a concept illustrating how it has become institutionalized as a social fact and analyzing its policy implications In Making Hate a Crime Valerie Jenness and Ryken Grattet show how the concept of hate crime emerged and evolved over time as it traversed the arenas of American politics legislatures courts and law enforcement In the process violence against people of color immigrants Jews gays and lesbians women and persons with disabilities has come to be understood as hate crime while violence against other vulnerable victims octogenarians union members the elderly and police officers for example has not The authors reveal the crucial role social movements played in the early formulation of hate crime policy as well as the way state and federal politicians defined the content of hate crime statutes how judges determined the constitutional validity of those statutes and how law enforcement has begun to distinguish between hate crime and other crime Hate crime took on different meanings as it moved from social movement concept to law enforcement practice As a result it not only acquired a deeper jurisprudential foundation but its scope of application has been restricted in some ways and broadened in others Making Hate a Crime reveals how our current understanding of hate crime is a mix of political and legal interpretations at work in the American policymaking process Jenness and Grattet provide an insightful examination of the birth of a new category in criminal justice hate crime Their findings have implications for emerging social problems such as school violence television induced violence elder abuse as well as older ones like drunk driving stalking and sexual harassment Making Hate a Crime presents a fresh perspective on how social problems and the policies devised in response develop over time A Volume in the American Sociological Association's Rose Series in Sociology Status, Power, and Legitimacy Morris Zelditch, 2018-04-17 Status Power and Legitimacy presents methodological theoretical and empirical essays by Joseph Berger and Morris Zelditch Jr two of the leading contributors to the Stanford tradition in the study of microprocesses This three part volume brings together major contributions to the development of this tradition in addition to a number of newly written essays published here for the first time Berger and Zelditch integrate the essays and relate them to a larger body of theory and research as they explore the importance of a generalizing orientation in sociology Their view of theory as flux and process the blending of social process with theory building produces a picture of the social world in line with the great tradition of George Herbert Mead Max Weber and Georg Simmel Status Power and Legitimacy explores the relation between the scope of a theory and testing applying and developing it the relation between abstract general theories and empirical generalizations and how to use an understanding of this relation to construct theories that are neither historically nor culturally bound In the first part Berger and Zelditch discuss strategies of theory construction the development of abstract general theories of social processes and the different ways in which theories grow Status processes are the focus of the second part which includes the formation of reward expectations the role of status cues in interaction the evolution of status expectations and the application of status characteristics theory to male female interaction Lastly the authors dissect power and legitimacy the effect of expectations on power the legitimation of power and its effect on the stability of authority and legitimation under conditions of dissensus This volume is a fine theoretical effort of great depth and breadth Berger and Zelditch review the background of each paper place the new concepts and principles introduced by each paper in context and examine subsequent research generated by the paper They carve out new research areas in the social world of class status power and authority This volume will be of interest to those in the fields of sociology and in particular social theory
