Social Space And Governance In Urban China:

Social Space and Governance in Urban China David Bray, 2022 Centered on the urban workplace the danwei workunit has been the fundamental social and spatial unit of urban China under socialism Not only was it the source of employment wages and other material benefits for the vast majority of urban residents it was also the institution through which the urban population was housed organized regulated policed educated trained protected and surveyed Furthermore as the basic unit of urban society each danwei became a community providing its members with identity a face and social belonging With particular focus on the link between spatial forms and social organization this book traces the origins and development of this critical institution up to the present day Recent economic restructuring has seen the danwei lose its dominant role yet its presence still influences the possibilities for urban transformation Moreover the author argues the new institutions emerging in its place display important characteristics of the old danwei system

The Politics of Community Building in Urban China Thomas Heberer, Christian Göbel, 2011-03-29 This book aims to make sense of the recent reform of neighbourhood institutions in urban China It builds on the observation that the late 1990s saw a comeback of the state in urban China after the increased economization of life in the 1980s had initially forced it to withdraw Based on several months of fieldwork in locations ranging from poor and dilapidated neighbourhoods in Shenyang City to middle class gated communities in Shenzhen the authors analyze recent attempts by the central government to enhance stability in China's increasingly volatile cities In particular they argue that the central government has begun to restructure urban neighbourhoods and has encouraged residents to govern themselves by means of democratic procedures Heberer and Göbel also contend that whilst on the one hand the central government has managed to bring the Party state back into urban society especially by tapping into a range of social groups that depend on it it has not however managed to establish a broad base for participation In testing this hypothesis the book examines the rationales strategies and impacts of this comeback by systematically analyzing how the reorganization of neighbourhood committees was actually conducted and find that opportunities for participation were far more limited than initially promised The book will be of interest to students and scholars of Chinese Studies Development Studies Urban Studies and Asian Studies in general

China's Urban Communities Peter G. Rowe, Ann Forsyth, Har Ye Kan, 2016-06-06 Cities in China are extremely dynamic and experience high pressure to grow transform and adapt But in what directions on what basis and to which goals The authors and their team have researched the intensive transformation processes of about twenty five neighborhood communities that were created in Beijing Shanghai Shenzhen and Suzhou in the last 30 years ranging from inner city to peripheral areas starting from planning and leading up to user satisfaction studies This in depth overview on neighborhood typology and development in China follows the book Emergent Architectural Territories in East Asian Cities by Peter Rowe who is among the world's best scholars on urban transformation in East Asia together with his colleagues Ann Forsyth and Har Ye Kan

Governing Neighborhoods in Urban China

Beibei Tang,2023-05-15 Governing Neighborhoods in Urban China examines the key mechanisms operating at the grassroots level in China that contribute to urban development and increased public support for the legitimacy and authority of the Chinese state Beibei Tang uncovers new trends and dynamics of urban neighborhood governance since the 2000s to reveal the significant factors that contribute to regime survival Tang introduces the concept of hybrid authoritarianism a governance mechanism an authoritarian state employs to produce governance legitimacy public support and regime sustainability Hybrid authoritarianism is situated in an intermediary governance space between state and society It accommodates both state and non state actors deals with a wide range of governance issues employs flexible governance strategies and in this context ultimately strengthens CCP leadership Tang documents processes of hybrid authoritarianism through her focus on various types of urban neighborhoods including new urban middle class neighborhoods and the increasing urbanization of the countryside Governing Neighborhoods in Urban China provides a conceptual framework that avoids scholarly approaches that tend to reify either one party autocracy or Western centric notions of democracy

Handbook on Urban Development in China Ray Yep,June Wang,Thomas Johnson,2019 The trajectory and logic of urban development in post Mao China have been shaped and defined by the contention between domestic and global capital central and local state and social actors of different class status and endowment This urban transformation process of historic proportion entails new rules for distribution and negotiation novel perceptions of citizenship as well as room for unprecedented spontaneity and creativity Based on original research by leading experts this book offers an updated and nuanced analysis of the new logic of urban governance and its implications China's Changing Welfare Mix Beatriz Carrillo,Jane Duckett,2011-06-10 This book draws attention to two neglected areas in the growing body of research on welfare in China subnational variation and the changing mix of state and non state provision The contributors to this volume demonstrate the diversity of local welfare provision that lies behind broad national policies and programmes Their focus on local diversity is particularly relevant to understanding the welfare system in China because national state programmes are so often organized by local governments in line with the specifics of their economic and social development At the same time that social and economic development is itself independently creating an array of different conditions that shape non state family business and third sector welfare roles Through chapters that draw on original research in eight provinces the book adopts a local perspective to illustrate and explain some of the transformations that are under way and discuss not only local government initiatives and programmes but also the services and support provided by families informal social networks and community or third sector organizations as well as those delivered by private businesses on a commercial for profit basis This book will be of interest to students and scholars of Chinese society social policy and Chinese studies more widely Beatriz Carrillo is Lecturer in Asian Studies at the University of Technology Sydney Australia Jane Duckett is Professor of Chinese and Comparative Politics at the University of Glasgow UK Resilience vs Pandemics Ali Cheshmehzangi,Maycon

Sedrez, Hang Zhao, Tian Li, Tim Heath, Ayotunde Dawodu, 2023-12-14 The COVID 19 pandemic and other highly transmissible diseases outbreaks have given a new significance to the concept of resilience placing it in the spotlight of built environment related studies New directions have emerged from expanding on adaptive planning urban layouts urban morphologies spatial planning healthy cities etc To enhance resilience in the post pandemic era various theories practices and hypotheses are being formulated by scholars around the world For this book project we invite chapter proposals that provide forefront discoveries about the built environment resilience during and after the ongoing pandemic Historical perspectives of resilience and other highly transmissible diseases are also relevant to understanding the COVID 19 issues The authors are encouraged to elaborate on critical exploratory innovative and cutting edge research approaches highlighting the effects of COVID 19 and other highly transmissible diseases in the design planning and perception of the built environment We aim to gather scientific experiences reviews analyses discussions recommendations and solutions in the fields of urban planning urban design urban management environmental science architecture etc The book aims to document resilience related innovations and new perspectives for the built environment how people s interactions adapt to new realities and which mechanisms tools and strategies are required for such transformations in the following two scales of the built environments 1 City district research on planning commuting and mobility politics urban configurations regulations transmission and prevention models top down processes innovation processes etc 2 Community neighborhood research on collaboration transmission and prevention isolation and quarantine social aspects accessibility to services technologies education policies and innovative solutions The book covers a wide range of studies including physical and non physical studies which may refer to the city infrastructure green blue spaces housing policy making health services social and economic issues etc The findings and results contribute to the decision making of governments organizations and institutions as well as inspire scholars and future research for developing resilience in the post pandemic era Hybrid Modernity Mary

Padua, 2020-07-26 This book provides a detailed historical and design analysis of the development of parks and modern landscape architecture in late 20th century China It questions whether the fusion of international influences with the local Chinese design vocabulary in late 20th century China has created a distinctive and novel approach to the design of public parks Hybrid Modernity proposes a new theory for examining the design of public parks built in post Mao China since the reforms and sets the various processes for China s late 20th century socio cultural context Drawing on modernization theory research on China s modernity local and global cultural trends it illustrates through a range of case studies ways hybrid modernity defines a new design genre and language for the spatial forms of parks that emerged in China s secondary cities Featured case studies include the Living Water Park in Chengdu Sichuan province Zhongshan Shipyard Park in Guangdong Province Jinji Lake Landscape Master Plan in Suzhou Jiangsu province and the West Lake Southern Scenic Area Master Plan in Hangzhou Zhejiang province This book argues that these forms represent a new stage in China s history of landscape architecture The work reveals that as a new profession landscape architecture has greatly contributed to China's massive urban experiment This book is an ideal read for students enrolled in landscape architecture architecture fine arts and urban planning programs who are engaged in learning the arts and international design education Privatizing China Li Zhang,Aihwa Ong,2008-02-28 Covering a vast range of daily life from homeowner organisations and the users of Internet cafés to self directed professionals and informed consumers the essays in Privatizing China create a compelling picture of the burgeoning awareness of self governing within the postsocialist context Routledge Handbook of Chinese Culture and Society Kevin Latham,2020-02-27 The Routledge Handbook of Chinese Culture and Society is an interdisciplinary resource that offers a comprehensive overview of contemporary Chinese social and cultural issues in the twenty first century Bringing together experts in their respective fields this cutting edge survey of the significant phenomena and directions in China today covers a range of issues including the following State privatisation and civil society Family and education Urban and rural life Gender and sexuality and reproduction Popular culture and the media Religion and ethnicity Forming an accessible and fascinating insight into Chinese culture and society this handbook will be invaluable to students and scholars across a range of disciplines including anthropology sociology area studies history politics and cultural and media studies China Constructing Capitalism Michael Keith,Scott Lash,Jakob Arnoldi,Tyler Rooker,2013-09-23 In China Constructing Capitalism the authors argue that it is not Western neo liberalism that is constructing the Chinese economy but instead that China is constructing its own version of capitalism This book analyses China as a risk culture examining among others Chinese firms and political ties property development migrant urbanisms and share trading rooms It scrutinises the ever present shadow of the risk averse yet uncertainty creating state It is a must read for social scientists policy makers and investors China's Housing Middle Class Beibei Tang,2017-10-25 Home ownership plays a significant role in locating the middle class in most western societies associated with market consumerism democracy and people like us the significant features of the middle class for any society In China private home ownership was not the norm from 1949 when the Chinese Communist Party took power until the 1990s In the past three decades however there has been a fast growing housing consumption and private homeowners have become the most significantly changing aspect of Chinese urban life In particular the rise of gated communities has become a predominant feature of the urban landscape Similar to their western counterparts the gated communities in China exemplify high status symbols with enclosed and restricted residential areas exclusive community parks and recreational facilities and professional management and security services But different from western societies where gated communities usually represent luxurious lifestyles only limited to a small group of people in urban China gated communities have become one major form of supply in the housing market and one of the most popular and desirable choices for homebuyers Private home ownership and residency in gated communities altogether characterize the most significant aspect of comfort living and distinct lifestyles of China's new middle classes who have successfully got ahead in the socialist market economy This book examines the formation of China's housing middle class It develops a theoretical argument about and provides empirical evidence of the heterogeneity of China's new middle class which underlines the relations between the state market and life chances under a socialist market economy As such it will be of huge interest to students and scholars of Chinese society sociology and politics

Politics in China William A. Joseph, 2019 On October 1 2019 the People's Republic of China PRC will celebrate the 70th anniversary of its founding And what an eventful and tumultuous seven decades it has been During that time under the leadership of the Chinese Communist Party CCP China has been transformed from one of world's poorest countries into one of its fastest growing economies and from a weak state barely able to govern or protect its own territory to a rising power that is challenging the United States for global influence But in the late 1950s the PRC experienced the most deadly famine in human history caused largely by the actions and inactions of its leaders Not long after there was a collapse of government authority that pushed the country to the brink of and in some places actually into civil war and anarchy And in 1989 the CCP unleashed the army to brutally crush demonstrations by students and others calling for political reform China is now for the most part peaceful prospering and proud The CCP maintains a firm grip on power through a combination of harsh repression and popular support largely based on its recent record of promoting rapid economic growth Yet the party and country face serious challenges on many fronts including a slowing economy environmental desecration pervasive corruption extreme inequalities ethnic unrest and a rising tide of social protest Politics in China provides an accessible yet authoritative introduction to how the world's most populous nation and rapidly rising global power is governed today The third edition has been extensively revised thoroughly updated and includes a new chapter on the internet and politics in China The book's chapters provide overviews of major periods in China's modern political history from the mid nineteenth century to the present examinations of key topics in contemporary Chinese politics and analyses of developments in four important areas located on China's geographic periphery Tibet

Smith, 2021-06-08

How China's expansive new era of urbanization threatens to undermine the foundations of rural life Since the beginning of the twenty first century China has vastly expanded its urbanization processes in an effort to reduce the inequalities between urban and rural areas Centered on the mountainous region of Chongqing which serves as an experimental site for the country's new urban development policies The End of the Village analyzes the radical expansion of urbanization and its consequences for China's villagers It reveals a fundamental rewriting of the nation's social contract as villages that once organized rural life and guaranteed rural livelihoods are replaced by an increasingly urbanized landscape dominated by state institutions Throughout this comprehensive study of China's urban rural coordination policy Nick R Smith traces the diminishing autonomy of the country's rural populations and their subordination to larger urban networks and shared administrative structures Outside Chongqing's urban centers competing forces are at work in reshaping the social political and spatial organization of its villages While municipal planners and policy makers seek to extend state power structures beyond the boundaries of the city village leaders and inhabitants try to maintain control over their communities uncertain futures through strategies such as collectivization shareholding real estate development and migration As China seeks to rectify the development crises of previous decades through rapid urban growth such drastic transformations threaten to displace existing ways of life for more than 600 million residents Offering an unprecedented look at the country's contentious shift in urban planning and policy The End of the Village exposes the precarious future of rural life in China and suggests a critical reappraisal of how we think about urbanization

Suzhou in Transition Beibei Tang, Paul Cheung, 2020-11-11 Through the lens of the city of Suzhou this edited volume presents views on the complex interaction between the central state market agents local governments and individuals who have shaped the development of Chinese cities and urban life Featuring a range of disciplinary perspectives contributors to this volume have all undertaken research in one municipality Suzhou to consider how history and culture have evolved during the modernisation of Chinese cities and the transformation of urban space as well as shifting rural urban relations and urban life during the reform era The volume is underscored by a complex dynamic system consisting of three interlocked mechanisms through which the central and local state interact history and culture social and economic life and administration and governance As such chapters analyse responses both from the state and society as driving forces of local development with an interplay between tradition and heritage on the one hand and China's economic and social development on the other Suzhou in Transition will appeal to students and scholars of Chinese and urban studies as well as urban sociology and geography

Policing Cities Randy Lippert, Kevin Walby, 2013-07-18 Policing Cities brings together international scholars from numerous disciplines to examine urban policing securitization and regulation in nine countries and the conceptual issues these practices raise Chapters cover many of the world's major cities including New York Beijing Paris London Berlin Mexico City Johannesburg Rio de Janeiro Boston Melbourne and Toronto as well as other urban areas in Britain United States South Africa Germany Australia and Georgia The collection examines the activities and reforms of the traditional public police but also those of emerging public and private policing agents and spaces that fall outside the public police's purview and which previously have received little attention It explores dramatic changes in public policing arrangements and strategies exclusion of urban homeless people new forms of urban surveillance and legal regulation and securitization and militarization of urban spaces The core argument in the volume is that cities are more than mere background for policing securitization and regulation Policing and the city are intimately intertwined This collection also reveals commonalities in the empirical interests methodological preferences and theoretical concerns of scholars working in these various disciplines and breaks down barriers among them This is the first collection on urban policing regulation and securitization with such a multi disciplinary and international character This collection will have a wide readership among upper level undergraduate and graduate level students in several disciplines and countries and can be used in geography urban studies legal and socio legal studies sociology anthropology political science and criminology courses

Chinese Urbanism: Urban Form And Life In The Tang-song Dynasties Jing Xie, 2020-02-25 Since the 1990s the urban landscape of China has witnessed revolutionary changes that are unrivalled in any country of the world throughout history Rapid urbanization facilitated by the modern planning mechanism for growth provides a feast for property developers Yet associated urban problems such as housing affordability traffic congestion energy consumption and environmental deterioration are aggravated This book takes a historic approach to investigate the planning philosophy urban form and life of the past Through a detailed study of urban development from early times through the imperial period with a focus on the Tang Song dynasties this book attempts to articulate the good qualities of urban landscapes from the past that still have instructive value for modern practices The focus on the Tang Song period is not only because China was the most advanced civilization of its time but also because it underwent a similar process of urbanization evident by tremendous economic growth a dramatic rise of urban population and an extended building boom Through evaluating the streets city layout public places urban communities houses and gardens and using interdisciplinary research in urban planning urban design architecture history and cultural studies this book asserts that the past is quintessentially important The past not only truthfully records the course of social and cultural formation of urban community and its associated physical fabric but also regulates the directions we may take in the future

The Chinese Lifestyle Alfonso Sanchez-Romera, 2023-01-13 The research presented in this book explores the formation of the middle class in contemporary urban China Including case studies on middle class professionals living in Beijing this book analyses how social and economic changes to Chinese society create a middle class lifestyle and new forms of distinction with a particular focus on the social construction of identity Looking through the lens of individuals perception of life trajectories and ideological taxonomies generated within the framework of post Maoist China the book uncovers the role that the Chinese middle class play in a state sponsored discourse and where the distinctions identifying the middle class lifestyle produce inequality transfer privilege and disadvantage in contemporary urban China It goes on to question hegemonic discourses on class arguing that a middle class identity is progressively constructed in urban China not only through consumption practices but through the experience of non individualistic activities in both the public and private spheres Analyzing how social distinctions are performed contributes to the understanding of the Chinese middle class pre pandemic as well as the continual challenges this social group shall face in the years to come As such this is a must read for those interested in the Chinese middle class Chinese politics and gender studies
