Gender and Social Policy in a Global Context Shireen Hassim, 2006-04-27 This book illustrates why both academic research and policy thinking need to factor in gender hierarchies and structures if they are to address some of the key challenges of contemporary societies the widespread informality and insecurity of paid work and the crisis of care

Social Policy in the Middle East and North Africa Rana Jawad, Nicola Jones, Mahmood Messkoub, 2019 This book presents a state of the art in the developing field of social policy in the Middle East and North Africa MENA region It offers an up to date conceptual analysis of social policy programmes and discourses in the MENA region by critically reviewing the range of social insurance and social assistance schemes that are currently in existence there It also analyses and offers suggestions on which of these policies can positively impact the region's advancement in terms of human development and in addressing social and economic inequalities and exclusion

Political and Institutional Transition in North Africa Silvia Colombo, 2018-06-13 The year 2011 will go down in history as a turning point for the Arab world The popular unrest that swept across the region and led to the toppling of the Ben Ali Mubarak and Qaddhafi regimes in Tunisia Egypt and Libya has fundamentally altered the social economic and political outlooks of these countries and the region as a whole This book assesses the transition processes unleashed by the uprisings that took place in Egypt and Tunisia in 2011 The wave of unrest and popular mobilisation that swept through these countries is treated as the point of departure of long and complex processes of change manipulation restructuring and entrenchment of the institutional structures and logics that defined politics The book explores the constitutive elements of institutional development namely processes of constitution making electoral politics the changing status and power of the judiciary and the interplay between the civilian and the military apparatuses in Egypt and Tunisia It also considers the extent to which these two countries have become more democratic as a result of their institutions being more legitimate accountable and responsive at the beginning of 2014 and from a comparative perspective The impact of temporal factors in shaping transition paths is highlighted throughout the book The book provides a comprehensive assessment of political and institutional transition processes in two key countries in North Africa and its conclusions shed light on similar processes that have taken place throughout the region since 2011 It will be a valuable resource for anyone studying Middle Eastern and North African politics area studies comparative institutional development and democratisation

Social Policy in Sub-Saharan African Context J. Adésinà, 2007-07-12 This volume reviews Africa's past experiences of social policy with an eye on the future. Contributions examine a range of social policy issues around healthcare, education, the labour market and social welfare and highlight important conceptual and policy issues for rebuilding Africa.

A Political Economy of the Middle East Melani Cammett, 2018-03-22. A Political Economy of the Middle East is the most comprehensive analysis of developments in the political economy of the region over the past several decades, examining the interaction of economic development processes, state systems and policies and social actors in the Middle East. The fourth edition, with new authors Melani Cammett and Ishac Diwan, has been thoroughly revised with two new introductory chapters that provide an updated framework with which to understand and study the many changes in demography, education, labor markets, urbanization, water and agriculture and international labor migration in the recent years. The new edition also includes a new chapter that charts the political economy of the Gulf states and in particular the phenomenal growth of oil economies, a new chapter on the rise of crony capitalism and increased coverage of the changes in civil society and social movements in the region, including an exploration of the causes, dynamics, consequences and aftermath of the Arab uprisings.

Mineral Rents and the Financing of Social Policy Katja Hujo, 2012-05-30. An exploration of the implications of mineral-led wealth and the opportunities that this creates for economic and social development. The book includes theoretical and policy analyses as well as micro-level country case studies including Norway, Chile, Indonesia, Nigeria and Botswana.

Social Policy in Iran Pooya Alaedini, 2021-11-29. This book provides in-depth analyses of the main social policy components and institutions in Iran. Its focus is on the period since 1979, although many of the developments are inevitably traced back to their pre-revolutionary origins. The first part of the book investigates socioeconomic trends and institutional developments, including the significant role played by post-revolutionary para-governmental organizations in the delivery of social programs. The remaining chapters analyze the achievements and challenges of health, education, social insurance, housing and employment policies as well as the macroeconomics of poverty.

Social welfare and religion in the Middle East Rana Jawad, 2009-07-29. As religion continues to regain its centrality in both academic and policy circles around the world, this book presents a new framework which examines the complex social and political dynamics shaping social welfare in the Middle East. Based on an in-depth study of the major Muslim and Christian religious welfare organizations in Lebanon, including Hezbollah, and drawing upon supplementary research conducted in Iran, Egypt and Turkey, the book argues that religion is providing sophisticated solutions to the major social and economic problems of the Middle East. It will be of use to students and academics of social policy, sociology, politics and Middle Eastern studies.

Building a House in Heaven Mona Atia, 2013-11-01. Charity is an economic act. This premise underlies a societal transformation: the merging of religious and capitalist impulses that Mona Atia calls pious neoliberalism. Though the phenomenon spans religious lines, Atia makes the connection between Islam and capitalism to examine the surprising relations between charity and the economy, the state and religion in the transition from Mubarak-era Egypt.

Mapping the landscape of charity and development in Egypt Building a House in Heaven reveals the factors that changed the nature of Egyptian charitable practices the state s intervention in social care and religion an Islamic revival intensified economic pressures on the poor and the subsequent emergence of the private sector as a critical actor in development She shows how when individuals from Egypt s private sector felt it necessary to address poverty they sought to make Islamic charities work as engines of development a practice that changed the function of charity from distributing goods to empowering the poor Drawing on interviews with key players Atia explores the geography of Islamic charities through multiple neighborhoods ideologies sources of funding projects and wide social networks Her work shifts between absorbing ethnographic stories of specific organizations and reflections on the patterns that appear across the sector An enlightening look at the simultaneous neoliberalization of Islamic charity work and Islamization of neoliberal development the book also offers an insightful analysis of the political and socioeconomic movements leading up to the uprisings that ended Mubarak s rule and that amplified the importance of not only the Muslim Brotherhood but also the broader forces of Islamic piety and charity

Women, Religion, and the State in Contemporary Turkey Chiara Maritato, 2020-05-28 Tracing the centrality of women in the definition of Turkish secularism this study investigates the 2003 decision to increase the number of women officers employed by the Presidency of Religious Affairs Diyanet It explores how as professional religious officers the female Diyanet preachers epitomize a pious modern and highly educated woman whose role in society has been raised to prominence Based on extensive fieldwork in Turkey and drawing on a rich ethnography of the activities conducted by Diyanet women preachers in Istanbul Chiara Maritato disentangles the state s attempt to standardize a multifaceted female religious participation In using the feminization of the Diyanet as a prism through which to understand the significance of a renewed presence of Islam in the Turkish public realm she casts light on a broader reformulation of religious services for women and families in Turkey and pinpoints how this pervasive moral support has been able to penetrate and reshape even secular spaces

Getting In Is Not Enough Colette Morrow, Terri Ann Fredrick, 2012-12 This anthology examines women's paid work in terms of both access to the economic system and the broader agenda of achieving feminist social change worldwide. Generations of feminists have linked women's empowerment, autonomy, and oppression to issues involving work. Most conflated women's economic and political clout with gender equity, arguing that increasing women's access to and leadership in the public workplace is crucial to the success of the feminist project. But recent debates about women's continued inability to gain equality in the workplace raise the need for new approaches to teaching about gender and employment. Getting In Is Not Enough responds to the challenge. Drawn from almost two decades of the Feminist Formations journal, the essays in this book critically examine assumptions about access and the ways in which women affect and are affected by work in three major spheres: economic, social, and political. Getting In Is Not Enough focuses on how access-based feminism, a term developed by Colette Morrow and Terri Ann Fredrick, has both failed and succeeded in achieving equity and justice for women and looks at how transnational feminism has addressed these concerns using a global, fundamentally transformative approach. The contributors consider a wide range of issues from an examination of the male-female wage gap that starts when girls are teenagers to policewomen in Persian Gulf countries to Latinas in politics to Aboriginal health care workers to secretarial work and to feminist activism in Cuban hip hop.

The Political Economy of Arab Food Sovereignty J. Harrigan, 2014-06-23 A political economy analysis of the history of food security in the Arab world, including the role played by the global food price crisis in the Arab Spring and the Arab response aiming at greater food sovereignty via domestic food production and land acquisition overseas, the so-called land grab.

Oil and Democracy in Iraq Robert Springborg, 2012-08-01 This is the first major study of the alternatives confronting Iraq as it seeks to rebuild its vital oil industry while simultaneously constructing a new political system. A key challenge facing the country is to allocate the revenues oil generates in a way that avoids economic and social instability. Reviewing the present status of the industry, the authors, including Clement Henry Massoud, Karshenas, Roger Owen, Mona Said, and John Sfakianakis, use comparative analysis to suggest how it might best be rebuilt. Oil and Democracy in Iraq is an important and timely assessment of Iraq's oil industry.

The Middle East Ellen M. Lust, 2022 In the newly updated Sixteenth Edition of The Middle East, Ellen Lust and contributors comprehensively examine regional trends and offer in-depth country profiles to illuminate this vital region.
