Agribusiness and Society Kees Jansen, Sietze Vellema, 2013-07-04 This volume examines how far agribusiness corporations are responding to the opportunities and pressures resulting from emerging environmental awareness In particular in what ways are they changing their R some changed their production practices in a sustainable way while others have complied with or resisted state environmental regulation notably labelling systems and certification Each study explores how institutional cultural economic political and technological contexts shape the strategies of big business Topics include green bananas genetically modified tomatoes and soy the new markets in organic produce health and pesticides and access to justice The book explains why some corporations are successful in introducing environmentally friendly innovations and others are not The key to understanding contrasting outcomes is examining the interaction between internal corporate environments where profit and efficiency considerations predominate and external environments where consumer preferences NGO pressures and government regulation are important The book also explores possible new roles for the public sector The result is a sophisticated and critical analysis of business practices and regulatory systems in the agro food sector

What is Water? Jamie Linton, 2010 We all know what water is and we often take it for granted Because it seems so natural we seldom question how we see water But the spectre of a worldwide water crisis suggests that there might be something fundamentally wrong with the way we think about water Jamie Linton dives into the history of the modern concept of water that water can be stripped of its wider environmental social and cultural contexts and reduced to a scientific abstraction to mere H₂O This abstraction has given modern society licence to dam divert and manipulate water with impunity giving rise to a growing suite of problems Linton argues that part of the solution to the water crisis involves deliberately reinvesting water with social content
