Someplace To Be Flying:

Someplace to be Flying Charles De Lint, 1998 Someplace to Be Flying Charles de Lint, 2013 Charles de Lint's beloved fictional city of Newford is the backdrop for this riveting urban fantasy which pays homage to ancient Native American legends of secret animal people living among us and features an afterword original to this edition Come join the misfits marginalized and orphans of the modern world street folks who sit around the fire by Moth's trailer in the junkyard in their own family of choice Meet a punky pair of Crow Girls delightful yet dangerous who will insert themselves into your heart and change you forever Raven enigmatic keeper of the pot that safeguards the ways of our world Coyote handsome Trickster ever driven to stir the pot with good intentions yet dire consequences Fox seductive canid whose past indiscretions return to haunt him Jack Daw storyteller who spins captivating tales while hiding his deepest sorrow the Cuckoo family viscious amoral and determined to gain control of whatever will destroy the corbae crow clans Combine these with a host of other compelling characters animal and human whose lives are woven together as they try to come to terms with complex personal relationships and damaged pasts The mysterious threads of this story will set your imagination soaring on the winds of change and culminate in a final battle over an object of such incredible power that it has the ability to destroy the entire world Someplace to Be Flying print edition review excerpts Nobody does urban fantasy better than Charles de Lint He has a gift for creating engaging fully realized characters totally believable dialogue and a feeling that magic is just around the corner He can make you believe as many as six impossible things before breakfast Amazon.com Editorial Review De Lint's elegant prose and effective storytelling continue to transform the mundane into the magical at every turn Highly recommended Library Journal Copyright 1998 Reed Business Information Inc In many hands the urban fantasy plot involving strange beings just around the corner fails dismally It does not in the hands of the reliable the inimitable de Lint As page turning and intelligent as usual for de Lint who clearly has no equal as an urban fantasist and very few equals among fantasists as a folklorist First rate Booklist An enthralling blend of old European and Native American mythology seamlessly worked into a modern setting and situation De Lint's best so far Kirkus Reviews The reader does not have to be strictly a fan of either thrillers or fantasy to thoroughly enjoy this delightful tale The Washington Post De Lint is as engaging a stylist as Stephen King but considerably more inventive and ambitious With Someplace To Be Flying he has produced a book that should appeal even to those who like this reviewer do not generally care a lot for fantasy Toronto Globe and Mail Flying Magazine, 1998-03 Merchant Vessels of the United States... United States. Coast Guard, 1977 Popular Aviation, 2005 Automated Systems in the Aviation and Aerospace Industries Shmelova, Tetiana, Sikirda, Yuliya, Rizun, Nina, Kucherov, Dmytro, Dergachov, Konstantin, 2019-03-22 Air traffic controllers need advanced information and automated systems to provide a safe environment for everyone traveling by plane One of the primary challenges in developing training for automated systems is to determine how much a trainee will need to know about the underlying technologies to use automation safely and efficiently To ensure safety and success task analysis techniques should be used as the basis of the design for training in automated systems in the aviation and aerospace industries Automated Systems in the Aviation and Aerospace Industries is a pivotal reference source that provides vital research on the application of underlying technologies used to enforce automation safety and efficiency While highlighting topics such as expert systems text mining and human machine interface this publication explores the concept of constructing navigation algorithms based on the use of video information and the methods of the estimation of the availability and accuracy parameters of satellite navigation This book is ideal for aviation professionals researchers and managers seeking current research on information technology used to reduce the risk involved in aviation
