Bulletin ,1901 Bookseller's catalogues George Harding (ltd.),1884 Concentration and Power in the Food

System Philip H. Howard, 2016-02-25 Nearly every day brings news of another merger or acquisition involving the companies that control our food supply. Just how concentrated has this system become? At almost every key stage of the food system, four firms alone control 40% or more of the market, a level above which these companies have the power to drive up prices for consumers and reduce their rate of innovation. Researchers have identified additional problems resulting from these trends, including negative impacts on the environment, human health, and communities. This book reveals the dominant corporations from the supermarket to the seed industry and the extent of their control over markets. It also analyzes the strategies these firms are using to reshape society in order to further increase their power, particularly in terms of their bearing upon the more vulnerable sections of society, such as recent immigrants, ethnic minorities, and those of lower socioeconomic status. Yet this study also shows that these trends are not inevitable. Opposed by numerous efforts from microbreweries to seed saving networks, it explores how such opposition has encouraged the most powerful firms to make small but positive changes.

Some Aspects of Community Empowerment and Resilience Venkat Pulla, Bharath Bhushan Mamidi, 2015-07-01 With escalating poverty, rising individualism, outright destruction of social security networks, and diminished civil liberties across the world, many professionals appear to be settling down for individual fixes rather than system overhauls. Social work has a rich history of community development yet seems to be a semi-passive spectator to the growing listlessness in our communities. Fuelled by the elites, government, and agencies, the models of community development seem to perpetuate dependency. A right-oriented citizen's perspective has been a long overdue in the discourse of empowerment of people. Professions with espoused commitment to human rights ought to step up their role and rekindle the roots in community empowerment. Some Aspects of Community Empowerment and Resilience addresses the above central themes and offers a fresh and refined approach on aspects of coping and resilience, community, and building hope.
