Something New:

Something Good Ashley Ostler, 2024-09-30 Life is messy Life is hard Life can still be beautiful While writing Something Good I was able to reflect on the days when I spent a lot of time praying to have God remove me from my trials Now I am grateful for those challenges that have helped me better come to know God I would love to share my experiences with you Something Good is a collection of stories that address some of the hardships that I have faced and how I began to heal after I allowed myself to feel once again I wrote this book as an alternative to using substances to fix what felt broken inside of me I struggle with addiction mental illness type 1 diabetes and grief among myriad other challenges that you and I might have in common The details of my experiences might look differently than yours and that is okay because the fact that we are all suffering to some degree sets us on common ground I believe that hardships are the ties that bind humanity and point our focus back toward God I hope that you can find something good to encourage you while reading this book because you my friend are not alone in your trials Much love AO

Movement and Performance in Berlin School Cinema Olivia Landry, 2019-02-08 A rich and welcome addition to the surge of scholarly interest in the Berlin School Studies in European Cinema Through a study of the contemporary German film movement the Berlin School Olivia Landry examines how narrative film has responded to our highly digitalized and mediatized age not with a focus on stasis and realism but by turning back to movement spectacle and performance She argues that a preoccupation with presence liveness and affect all of which are viewed as critical components of live performance can be found in many of the films of the Berlin School Challenging the perception that the Berlin School is a sheer adherent of slow cinema Landry closely analyzes the use of movement dynamism presence and speed in a broad selection of films to show how filmmakers such as Christian Petzold Angela Schanelec Thomas Arslan and Christoph Hochh usler invoke the pulse of the kinesthetic and the tangibly affective Her analysis draws on an array of film theories from early materialism to body theories phenomenology and contemporary affect theories Arguing that these theories readily and energetically forge a path from film to performance Landry traces a trajectory between the two through which live experience presence spectacle intersubjectivity and the body in motion emerge and powerfully intersect Ultimately Movement and Performance in Berlin School Cinema expands the methodological and disciplinary boundaries of film studies by offering new ways of articulating and understanding movement in cinema

Cities in the Urban Age Robert A. Beauregard, 2018-03-19 We live in a self proclaimed Urban Age where we celebrate the city as the source of economic prosperity a nurturer of social and cultural diversity and a place primed for democracy We proclaim the city as the fertile ground from which progress will arise Without cities we tell ourselves human civilization would falter and decay In Cities in the Urban Age Robert A Beauregard argues that this line of thinking is not only hyperbolic it is too celebratory by half For Beauregard the city is a cauldron for four haunting contradictions First cities are equally defined by both their wealth and their poverty Second cities are simultaneously environmentally destructive and yet promise sustainability Third cities encourage rule by political machines and oligarchies even as they are essentially democratic and at least nominally open to all And fourth city life promotes tolerance among disparate groups even as the friction among them often erupts into violence Beauregard offers no simple solutions or proposed remedies for these contradictions indeed he doesn't necessarily hold that they need to be resolved since they are generative of city life Without these four tensions cities wouldn't be cities Rather Beauregard argues that only by recognizing these ambiguities and contradictions can we even begin to understand our moral obligations as well as the clearest paths toward equality justice and peace in urban settings
