

The book cover features a complex, layered illustration. On the left, a large, dark, textured figure of a person's back and shoulder is visible. In the center, a purple silhouette of a person's head and neck is shown in profile. Below this, a small, dark, stylized house with a pointed roof sits on a blue and white floral patterned base. The background is a mix of warm, abstract colors like orange, yellow, and green, with some green foliage on the right side.

American Selves in Re-formation Jeannette Marie Mageo, 2022-01-12 Based on over a decade of research this book connects dream studies to cognitive anthropology to perspectives in the humanities on mimesis ambiguity and metaphor to current dream research in psychology and to recent work in economic and political relations Traveling the dreamscapes of a variety of young people Mimesis and the Dream explores their encounters with American cultures and the identities that derive from these encounters While ethnographies typically concern shared social habits and practices this book concerns shared aspects of subjectivity and how people represent and think about them in dreams Each chapter grounds theory in actual cases It will be compelling to scholars in multiple disciplines and illustrates how dreaming offers insights into twenty first century debates and problems within these disciplines bringing a vital theoretically eclectic approach to dream studies the differences in content reader expectation and social moral ethical functions of the three types of novels in America of the 1950s It challenges the notion that highbrow novels Lolita do important cultural work while popular novels contribute to personal and social decay and examines how time periods influence the moral content of novels The book separates popular fiction into lowbrow Peyton Place and middlebrow Man in the Grey Flannel Suit and explains that lowbrow like highbrow evolves from the folklore tradition and contains messages about how to be a good man or good woman and how to find a satisfying niche in the social order Middlebrow on the other hand evolves from myth tradition and relates lessons on what personal adjustments need to be made to succeed in the economic order Middlebrow novels most reflect the time and place of their writing because conditions for economic survival change more than conditions for social survival Arguing that what most distinguishes highbrow from lowbrow is the audience highbrow writers try to separate from the flock lowbrow writers to include This study differs from such well known studies of popular fiction as John Cawelti's and Janice Radway's in looking beyond the surface features of plot character and theme The book also challenges arguments that novels in which marriage is women's highest triumph and aggressive heroism men's reinforce limiting cultural paradigms

Anthropology and Egalitarianism Eric Gable, 2010-12-03 Anthropology and Egalitarianism is an artful and accessible introduction to key themes in cultural anthropology Writing in a deeply personal style and using material from his fieldwork in three dramatically different locales Indonesia West Africa and Monticello the historic home of Thomas Jefferson Eric Gable shows why the ethnographic encounter is the core of the discipline's method and the basis of its unique contribution to understanding the human condition Gable weaves together vignettes from the field and discussion of major works as he explores the development of the idea of culture through the experience of cultural contrast anthropology's fraught relationship to racism and colonialism and other enduring themes
