Strangely Familiar Iain Borden, Joe Kerr, Alicia Pivaro, Jane Rendell, 2013-05-13 This series of provocative views presents the ways we use and inhabit places and the ways our lives are shaped by those places Strangely Familiar is a book about the unexpected about the vitality and the complexity of the everyday The Unknown City Iain Borden, 2002 A look beyond design process and buildings aimed at discovering new ways of looking at the urban experience NATØ: Narrative Architecture in Postmodern London Claire Jamieson, 2017-01-20 Chronicling the last radical architectural group of the twentieth century NAT Narrative Architecture Today who emerged from the Architectural Association at the start of the 1980s this book explores the group's work which echoed a wider artistic and literary culture that drew on the specific political social and physical condition of 1980s London It traces NAT's identification with a particular stream of post punk postmodern expression a celebration of the abject an aesthetic of entropy and a do it yourself provisionality NAT has most often been documented in reference to Nigel Coates the instigator of NAT which has led to a one sided one dimensional record of NAT's place in architectural history This book sets out a more detailed contextual history of NAT told through photographs drawings and ephemera restoring a truer polyvocal narrative of the group's ethos and development Textual Practice Jean Howard, Alan Sinfield, Lindsay Smith, 2005-06-27 In this volume Textual Practice brings together some of its most pressing concerns by exploring the interaction of texts with language politics gender and history Textual Practice has a theoretical approach that crosses over into a range of other apparently disparate disciplines philosophy history law medicine science architecture gender and media studies Key Features Features the most exciting new voices and the most influential new scholars in the field Multidisciplinary Includes two articles on Ireland _ _ _ Architecture Jonathan Hill, 2014-04-04 The aim of this book is to expand the subject and matter of architecture and to explore their interdependence There are now many architectures This book acknowledges architecture far beyond the familiar boundaries of the discipline and reassesses the object at its centre the building Architectural matter is not always physical or building fabric It is whatever architecture is made of whether words bricks blood cells sounds or pixels The fifteen chapters are divided into three sections on buildings spaces and bodies which each deal with a particular understanding of architecture and architectural matter The richness and diversity of subjects and materials discussed in this book locates architecture firmly in the world as a whole not just the domain of architects In stating that architecture is far more than the work of architects this book aims not to deny the importance of architects in the production of architecture but to see their role in more balanced terms and to acknowledge other architectural producers Architecture can for example be found in the incisions of a surgeon the instructions of a choreographer or the movements of a user Architecture can be made of anything and by anyone Cine-scapes Richard Koeck, 2013 Cine scapes ignites new ways of seeing thinking and debating the nature of architecture and urban spaces Drawing on the author's extensive knowledge it offers insight into architecture and urban debates through the eyes of a practitioner working in the fields of film and architectural design emphasizes how filmic cinematic tendencies take place or find their way into urban practices can be used as a tool for educators students and practitioners in architecture and urban design to communicate and discuss design issues with regard to contemporary architecture and cities

Pursuit of Pleasure Jane Rendell,2010-07-15 The Pursuit of Pleasure presents the figures of the rambler and the cyprian the Eighteenth Century precursors to the Parisian flâneur and prostitute The urban spaces traced by these figures were the clubs sporting venues operas assembly rooms streets and arcades of central London Drawing on critical theory geography and philosophy The Pursuit of Pleasure extends and critiques the discipline of architectural history from a feminist perspective The gendering of public space is considered to be a complex and shifting series of moves and looks between men and women constructed and represented through spatial and social relations of consumption display and exchange

Illustrated with contemporary prints and drawings The Pursuit of Pleasure is an extraordinarily rich analysis of the gendered issues of public space at the birth of the modern metropolis

Museum Architecture Suzanne MacLeod,2013-04-12 Recent decades have witnessed an explosion of museum building around the world and the subsequent publication of multiple texts dedicated to the subject Museum Architecture A new biography focuses on the stories we tell of museum buildings in order to explore the nature of museum architecture and the problems of architectural history when applied to the museum and gallery Starting from a discussion of the key issues in contemporary museum design the book explores the role of architectural history in the prioritisation of specific stories of museum building and museum architects and the exclusion of other actors from the history of museum making These omissions have contemporary relevance and impact directly on the ways in which the physical structures of museums are shaped Theoretically the book places a particular emphasis on the work of Pierre Bourdieu and Henri Lefebvre in order to establish an understanding of buildings as social relations the outcome of complex human interactions and relationships The book utilises a micro history an in depth case study of the National Gallery of the North the Walker Art Gallery in Liverpool to expose the myriad ways in which museum architecture is made Coupled with this detailed exploration is an emphasis on contemporary museum design which utilises the understanding of the social realities of museum making to explore ideas for a socially sustainable museum architecture fit for the twenty first century

City Worlds John Allen,Doreen Massey,Steve Pile,2005-06-23

For the first time in history half of the world's population is living in mega cities. Never before have we confronted such a geography of the world's people. Analysing cities through spatial understanding, City Worlds explores how different worlds within the city are brought into close proximity. The authors outline new ways to address the ambiguities of cities, their promise and potential, their problems and threats. City Worlds Doreen B. Massey, John Allen, Steve Pile, 1999. Analysing cities through spatial understanding, this book explores how different worlds within the city are brought into close proximity and outlines new ways to address some of the ambiguities of cities, their promise, potential and problems. Anthropology for Architects Ray Lucas, 2020-02-06. What can architects learn from anthropologists? This is the central question examined in Anthropology for Architects, a survey and exploration of the ideas which underpin the correspondence between contemporary social anthropology and architecture. The focus is on architecture as a design practice. Rather than presenting architectural artefacts as objects of the anthropological gaze, the book foregrounds the activities and aims of architects themselves. It looks at the choices that designers have to make whether engaging with a site context, drawing, modelling, constructing or making a post-occupancy analysis and explores how an anthropological view can help inform design decisions. Each chapter is arranged around a familiar building type, including the studio, the home, markets, museums and sacred spaces, in each case showing how anthropology can help designers to think about the social life of buildings at an appropriate scale, that of the individual life worlds which make up the everyday lives of a building's users. Showing how anthropology offers an invaluable framework for thinking about complex, messy real-world situations, the book argues that ultimately a truly anthropological architecture offers the potential for a more socially informed, engaged and sensitive architecture which responds more directly to people's needs. Based on the author's experience teaching as well as his research into anthropology by way of creative practice, this book will be directly applicable to students and researchers in architecture, landscape, urban design and design anthropology as well as to architectural professionals. Tuff City Nicholas T. Dines, 2012. During the 1990s, Naples' left-wing administration sought to tackle the city's infamous reputation of being poor, crime-ridden, chaotic and dirty by reclaiming the city's cultural and architectural heritage. This book examines the conflicts surrounding the reimagining and reordering of the city's historic centre through detailed case studies of two piazzas and a centro sociale, focusing on a series of issues that include heritage, decorum, security, pedestrianization, tourism, immigration and new forms of urban protest. This monograph is the first in-depth study of the complex transformations of one of Europe's most fascinating and misunderstood cities. It represents a new critical approach to the questions of public space, citizenship and urban regeneration as well as a broader methodological critique of how we write about contemporary cities. Text and Image Richard Smith, 2017-07-28. Expanding upon longstanding concerns in cultural history about the relation of text and image, this book explores how ideas move across and between expressive forms. The contributions draw from art and architectural history, film, theater, performance studies and social and cultural history to identify and dissect the role that the visual and performing arts can play in the experience and understanding of the past The essays highlight the role of oral history in the documentation of the visual and performing arts They share a common set of questions as they explore firmly grounded in their distinctive disciplinary standpoints the circuit of word gesture object in the formation and reproduction of knowledge identity and community Blending theory and case study they cover subjects such as the response of artists to the South African Truth and Reconciliation Commission violence in Columbia and Mexico and the Balkan Wars the circuit of sexual desire in contemporary art and photography and sites of collective and personal memory including the Internet the urban landscape family photographs and hip hop Stressing the relationship of media to the formation of collective memory the volume explores how media intertextuality creates overlapping repertoires for understanding the past and the present Scholars of art history media and cultural studies literature and performance studies will all find this work a valuable resource

Art and the Performance of Memory Richard Cándida Smith, 2003-08-29 This book investigates the role that the visual and performing arts play in our experience and understanding of the past Expanding upon longstanding concerns in cultural history about the relation of text and image the book highlights the distinction between enactive and cognitive memory and the implications of this for artists and their publics

Rethinking Architectural Historiography Dana Arnold, Elvan Altan Ergut, Belgin Turan Ozkaya, 2006-09-27 Rather than subscribing to a single position this collection informs the reader about the current state of the discipline looking at changes across the broad field of methodological theoretical and geographical plurality Divided into three sections Rethinking Architectural Historiography begins by renegotiating foundational and contemporary boundaries of architectural history in relation to other fields such as art history and archaeology It then goes on to critically engage with past and present histories disclosing assumptions biases and absences in architectural historiography It concludes by exploring the possibilities provided by new perspectives reframing the discipline in the light of new parameters and problematics This timely and illustrated title reflects upon the current changes in historiographical practice exploring potential openings that may contribute further transformation of the disciplines and theories on architectural historiography and addresses the current question of the disciplinary particularity of architectural history

Disability, Space, Architecture: A Reader Jos Boys, 2017-02-17 Disability Space Architecture A Reader takes a groundbreaking approach to exploring the interconnections between disability architecture and cities The contributions come from architecture geography anthropology health studies English language and literature rhetoric and composition art history disability studies and disability arts and cover personal theoretical and innovative ideas and work Richer approaches to disability beyond regulation and design guidance remain fragmented and difficult to find for architectural and built environment students educators and professionals By bringing together in one place some seminal texts and projects as well as newly commissioned writings readers can engage with disability in unexpected and exciting ways that can vibrantly inform their understandings of architecture and urban design Most crucially Disability Space Architecture A Reader opens up not just disability but also ability dis ability as a means of refusing the normalisation of only particular kinds of bodies in the design of built space It reveals how our everyday social attitudes and practices about people objects and spaces can be better understood through the lens of disability and it suggests how thinking differently about dis ability can enable innovative and new kinds of critical and creative architectural and urban design education and practice

Reading Architecture with Freud and Lacan Lorens Holm, 2022-09-30 Reading Architecture with Freud and Lacan Shadowing the Public Realm methodically outlines key concepts in psychoanalytic discourse by reading them against key modern and post modern architects It begins with what is arguably the central concept for each discipline by putting the unconscious in a dialectic relation to space Each subsequent chapter begins with a detail in architectural discourse a kind of provocation that anchors each excursion into the thought of Freud and Lacan The text is cyclical episodic and cloudlike rather than expository the intention is not simply to explain the concept of the unconscious but to different degrees perform it in the text The book offers powerful critiques of current planning practice which has no tools to address our attachment to places It concludes with powerful critiques of our incapacity to change the environmentally damaging ways we live our lives which is an effect of our incapacity to recognise the presence of the death drive in our nature The text is an extended thesis spanning the chapters that the field of the Other is the common grammar that organises subjects into civilisations which has consequences for how we treat the public realm in architecture politics and the city The field of the Other is a slightly different slice through the urban social world It shadows but does not correspond exactly to more familiar categories like private public inside outside figure ground or piazza boulevard Reading Architecture with Freud and Lacan will be an essential resource to anyone interested in how the environment we build is a reflection of our desire Psychoanalysis is one of the great humanist discourses of the 20th century and this book will be a valuable reference to the humanist in architects planners and social scientists whether they are students professionals or amateurs It will appeal to historians of the 20th century and to psychoanalysts and architects who are interested in how their respective discourses interdigitate with each other and with other discourses
