Tackling Racism In Europe An Examination Of Antidiscrimination Law In Practice:

Tackling Racism in Europe Martin MacEwen, 1995 With integration at the forefront of the European agenda the importance of national identity and ethnic heritage has become the object of focused attention So too have racial conflict and discrimination as groups vie for place and privilege in an increasingly competitive world This book aims to provide a critical examination of current anti discrimination law and policy relating to race in a selection of the EC member states It also discusses provisions and developments likely to result from the creation of a unified Europe as well as the relevance of international and regional treaty obligations The Rowman & Littlefield Handbook of Policing, Communication, and Society Howard Giles, Shawn L. Hill, Edward R. Maguire, 2021-04-15 The Rowman Littlefield Handbook of Policing Communication and Society brings together well regarded academics and experienced practitioners to explore how communication intersects with policing in areas such as cop culture race and ethnicity terrorism and hate crimes social media police reform crowd violence and many more By combining research and theory in criminology psychology and communication this handbook provides a foundation for identifying and understanding many of the issues that challenge police and the public in today s society It is an important and comprehensive analysis of the enormous changes in the roles of gender in society digital technology social media and organizational structures have impacted policing and public perceptions about law enforcement The EU Race Directive Erica Howard, 2009-10-16 In 2000 the European Union adopted a Directive against discrimination on the grounds of racial or ethnic origin This book provides an in depth evaluation of the Race Directive and its effects questioning how successful the Race directive has been The EU Race Directive discusses the history of the fight against racial discrimination in the EU and the equality clauses in international Human Rights instruments It then examines the terms race racism and racial discrimination and equality in the Directive The book also looks at the concepts of equality which can be distinguished in the Race Directive and in the subsequent developments at EU level Examining whether the Directive has improved the protection against racial or ethnic origin discrimination for people within the EU the book concludes with an assessment of how far the EU has come on the road to racial equality with the adoption of the Race Directive and the subsequent developments It also contains proposals for possible improvements The comprehensive and up to date analysis in this book goes beyond most other books written on the subject and the specific focus on racism and racial discrimination means a more thorough examination than most texts focusing on discrimination on a larger number of grounds This book will be of great value to students and academics in European law social sciences and human rights researching racism racial discrimination ethnicity and race relations It will also be useful for policy makers

Working Through Barriers Irena Kogan, 2007-05-03 Working through Barriers deals with the role host countries institutional characteristics play in the labour market integration of immigrants in the European Union Drawing on existing research it develops a comprehensive conceptual framework of factors and underlying mechanisms affecting immigrant structural integration in the European Union¹⁵ It maps the European countries with respect to three institutional aspects central to immigrant integration: immigration policies, labour market structure and welfare regimes. Further, it presents a descriptive picture of the labour market situation of the immigrant population in the European Union and seeks to explain the variation in labour market outcomes, namely unemployment risk and occupational status, with reference to differences in the characteristics of the immigrant populations on the one hand and by differences in labour market structure, immigration policies and welfare regimes in European Union countries on the other. In-depth analyses of a selected number of EU countries are carried out with the aim of investigating the extent to which immigrants have succeeded or failed in different institutional contexts.

The Dynamics of Managing Diversity Gill Kirton, Anne-Marie Greene, 2007-03-30 This text takes the view that the study of equality needs to consider not only issues of discrimination but also the needs of people in relation to their diverse cultures and identities. It therefore takes a different approach to the issues of quality and diversity in the world of employment. The Dynamics of Managing Diversity discusses diversity as recognition of the differences and similarities between and among social groups and how resulting policies must reflect these. This new edition has been extensively revised and updated to incorporate new conceptual, theoretical and empirical work now available in this growing subject area.

Equal in Law, Unequal in Fact Timo Makkonen, 2012-01-05 This book explores the causes, forms and consequences of racial discrimination as well as the international and European legal responses thereto. It explains why the law fails to eliminate discrimination and suggests ways forward.

Legal Aspects of Ethnic Data Collection and Positive Action Jozefien Van Caeneghem, 2019-09-05 This book addresses the legal feasibility of ethnic data collection and positive action for equality and anti-discrimination purposes and considers how they could be used to promote the Roma minority's inclusion in Europe. The book's central aim is to research how a societal problem can be improved upon from a legal perspective. The controversy surrounding ethnic data collection and positive action severely limits their use at the national level. Accordingly, legal and political concerns are analysed and addressed in order to demonstrate that it is possible to collect such data and to implement such measures while fully respecting international and European human rights norms provided that certain conditions are met. Part I focuses on ethnic data collection and explores the key rules and principles that govern it, the ways in which this equality tool could be used and how potential obstacles might be overcome. It also identifies and addresses the specific challenges that arise when collecting ethnic data on the Roma minority in Europe. In turn, Part II explores positive action and the broad range of measures covered by the concept before analysing the applicable international and European framework. It reviews the benefits and challenges of implementing positive action for Roma, identifies best practices and gives special consideration to intercultural mediation in the advancement of Roma inclusion. The book concludes with an overview of the main findings on both topics and by identifying three essential elements that must be in place in addition to full respect for the applicable legal rules in order to combat discrimination and achieve the inclusion of

Roma in Europe by complementing existing anti discrimination frameworks with the collection of ethnic data and the implementation of positive action schemes Rethinking Migration Alejandro Portes, Josh DeWind, 2008-03 Includes statistical tables The Impact of Immigration Panikos Panayi, 1999 This book is a documentary history of immigration into post war Britain Using a range of sources it illustrates both the structural and personal reasons for immigration The author pays special attention to the social and economic lives of immigrants while some have found economic success the majority remain underprivileged Many have tried to maintain their ethnicity especially through language religion politics and culture As a result many immigrants have faced varying degrees of hostility from the state and from individual native Britons
