The Churches Of Surrey:

History of the Churches in Surrey ,1950      The Churches of Surrey Mervyn Blatch,1997-01-01 The Churches of Surrey's introduction shows how the geology and its economy affected the design of its churches and despite being one of England's smallest counties it enjoys a remarkable range. The coming of the railways changed the complexion of ecclesiastical architecture in the county as rural mainly medieval churches were restored to suit the needs of the Londoners pouring into Surrey. However the Victorians in addition to their often inappropriate restoration also contributed some fine churches such as St Michael's Croydon and St Mary's Buckland.      The Official Year-book of the Church of England Church of England,1884      The Review of the Churches ,1894      Notes on the Churches in the Counties of Kent, Sussex, and Surrey Arthur Hussey,2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1852 edition. Excerpt different statement is that Elthruide niece of King Alfred bestowed this manor upon the abbey of St Peter at Ghent upon which it Lewisham became a cell of Benedictine monks to that house. After his suppression of alien priories King Henry V gave this cell to the recently erected priory at Shene or Richmond in Surrey. A.D. 1414. Monast. VI. 987. It may be observed that the charter above quoted and a donation of land at Waltham with the church to Chertsey Abbey in Surrey are the only examples I have noticed though several may have been overlooked in the first five volumes of the Codex Diplomaticus of churches being named in connection with the places forming the subjects of the documents. 196. Leybourne. On the northern side of the north aisle of this church is a curious niche much ornamented. It has a quatrefoil in the head below which are two trefoiled arches divided by a shaft. 197. Lidsing. An ancient endowed chapelry in the parish of Gillingham to which church it is annexed. 198. Liminge. A.D. 1291. Ecclia de Limingge cum capella and it is named in Val Eccl. with the chapels of Stanford and Paddlesworth which connection still subsists. The latter place has a church assigned to it in D.B. but as Stanford has not to that very possibly may have belonged one of the three churches mentioned in D.B. under Leminge. The earliest notice discovered of this church is in a charter of Uuithraed king of Kent A.D. 697. basilicae beatae maris genitricis domini quae sita est in loco qui dicitur limingae of the church of the blessed Mary the Lord's mother which is situated in the place called Liminge. Cod. Dipl. I. 50. It is repeatedly named in subsequent records in that collection. Liminge church is said.      The Church ,1862      Views of All the Churches and Chapelries in the County of Surrey Charles Thomas Cracklow,1979 Exterior drawings of 1823 to accompany Manning and Bray's History of Surrey      Parish Churches Raphael Brandon,Joshua Arthur Brandon,1851      The Building News and Engineering Journal ,1875      The Church of England magazine [afterw.] The Church of England and Lambeth magazine ,1865
