Hartley's Maine Donna M. Cassidy, Elizabeth Finch, Randall R. Griffey, 2017-03-13 Marsden Hartley had a lifelong personal and aesthetic engagement with Maine where he was born in 1877 and where he died at age sixty six As an important member of the artistic circle promoted by Alfred Stieglitz Hartley began his career by painting the mountains of western Maine He subsequently led a peripatetic life traveling throughout Europe and North America and only occasionally visiting his native state By midlife however his itinerant existence had taken an emotional toll and he confided to Stieglitz that he wanted so earnestly a place to be Finally returning to the state in his later years he transformed his identity from urbane sophisticate to the painter from Maine But while Maine has played a clear and defining role in Hartley's art not until now has this relationship been studied with the breadth and richness it warrants

Marsden Hartley's Maine is the first in depth discussion of Hartley's complex and shifting relationship to his native state Illustrated with works from throughout the painter's career it provides a nuanced understanding of Hartley's artistic range from the exhilarating Post Impressionist landscapes of his early years to the late roughly rendered paintings of Maine and its people The absorbing essays examine Hartley's view of Maine as a place of light and darkness whose spirit imbued his art which encompassed buoyant coastal views mournful mountain vistas and portraits of Mainers An illustrated chronology provides an overview of Hartley's life juxtaposing major personal incidents with concurrent events in Maine's history For Hartley who was strongly influenced by such artists as Paul C. Zanne Winslow Homer and Albert Pinkham Ryder Maine was an enduring source of inspiration one powerfully intertwined with his past his cultural milieu and his desire to create a regional expression of American modernism

A Strange Mixture Sascha T. Scott, 2015-01-21 Attracted to the rich ceremonial life and unique architecture of the New Mexico pueblos many early twentieth century artists depicted Pueblo peoples places and culture in paintings These artists' encounters with Pueblo Indians fostered their awareness of Native political struggles and led them to join with Pueblo communities to champion Indian rights In this book art historian Sascha T. Scott examines the ways in which non Pueblo and Pueblo artists advocated for American Indian cultures by confronting some of the cultural legal and political issues of the day Scott closely examines the work of five diverse artists exploring how their art was shaped by and helped to shape Indian politics She places the art within the context of the interwar period 1915-30 a time when federal Indian policy shifted away from forced assimilation and toward preservation of Native cultures Through careful analysis of paintings by Ernest L. Blumenschein John Sloan Marsden Hartley and Awa Tsireh Alfonso Roybal Scott shows how their depictions of thriving Pueblo life and rituals promoted cultural preservation and challenged the pervasive romanticizing theme of the vanishing Indian Georgia O'Keeffe's images of Pueblo dances which connect abstraction with lived experience testify to the legacy of these political and aesthetic transformations Scott makes use of anthropology history and indigenous studies in her art historical narrative She is one of the first scholars to address varied responses to issues of cultural preservation by aesthetically and culturally diverse artists including Pueblo painters Beautifully designed this book features nearly sixty artworks reproduced in full color Seeking the Spiritual Townsend Ludington, Marsden Hartley, 1998 Marsden Hartley 1877 1943 was a writer and a spiritual seeker as well as a distinguished American painter In his introduction to this generously illustrated volume Townsend Ludington explores the relationships among Hartley's art poetry and essays He traces the philosophical and literary sources that nourished the artist's evolving spiritual consciousness Raised in Lewiston Maine Hartley felt at odds with life A voracious reader he educated himself and became enamored of the transcendentalists Ralph Waldo Emerson and Henry David Thoreau and particularly of Walt Whitman He began spending winters in New York City where he met and was befriended by Alfred Stieglitz He visited Europe but remained restless for the right physical environment Eventually returning to New England Hartley painted in Dogtown Massachusetts in the low hills behind the port of Gloucester and the stark landscape there stimulated some of his most famous paintings Throughout his career Hartley painted landscapes and seascapes in which he tried to convey his sense of the wonder of earth at the same time attempting to articulate the spiritual awareness that came to him in the magic of dreams Consciously representative of modernism Hartley strove to express as Wallace Stevens said not ideas about the thing but the thing itself He believed that the acts of reading writing and painting gave significance to the world accessible to his senses This book is published with the cooperation of the Ackland Museum in Chapel Hill North Carolina and the Babcock Galleries in New York City

Somehow a Past Marsden Hartley, 1997 Marsden Hartley 1877 1943 is best known as an American modernist and pioneering artist and writer of the early 20th century This autobiographical account of his life is the most revealing document he left about his personal life and relationships but has never been published before SOMEHOW A PAST is compelling both as historical document and as personal narrative 45 illustrations Matter, Magic, and Spirit David Murray, 2013-04-23 The spiritual and religious beliefs and practices of Native Americans and African Americans have long been sources of fascination and curiosity owing to their marked difference from the religious traditions of white writers and researchers Matter Magic and Spirit explores the ways religious and magical beliefs of Native Americans and African Americans have been represented in a range of discourses including anthropology comparative religion and literature Though these beliefs were widely dismissed as primitive superstition and inferior to higher religions like Christianity distinctions were still made between the supposed spiritual capacities of the different groups David Murray's analysis is unique in bringing together Indian and African beliefs and their representations First tracing the development of European ideas about both African fetishism and Native American primitive belief he goes on to explore the ways in which the hierarchies of race created by white Europeans coincided with hierarchies of religion as expressed in the developing study of comparative religion and folklore through the nineteenth century Crucially this comparative approach to practices that were dismissed as conjure or black magic or Indian medicine points as well to the importance of their cultural and political roles in their own communities at times of destructive change Murray also explores the ways in which Indian and African writers later reformulated the models developed by white observers as demonstrated through the work of Charles Chesnutt and Simon Pokagon and then in the later conjunctions of modernism and ethnography in the 1920s and 1930s through the work of Zora Neale Hurston Zitkala Sa and others Later sections demonstrate how contemporary writers including Ishmael Reed and Leslie Silko deal with the revaluation of traditional beliefs as spiritual resources against a background of New Age spirituality and postmodern conceptions of racial and ethnic identity
