Ayu Saraswati, 2013-03-31 In Indonesia light skin color has been desirable throughout recorded history Seeing Beauty Sensing Race explores Indonesia s changing beauty ideals and traces them to a number of influences first to ninth century India and some of the oldest surviving Indonesian literary works then a thousand years later to the impact of Dutch colonialism and the wartime occupation of Japan and finally in the post colonial period to the popularity of American culture The book shows how the transnational circulation of people images and ideas have shaped and shifted discourses and hierarchies of race gender skin color and beauty in Indonesia The author employs affect theories and feminist cultural studies as a lens through which to analyze a vast range of materials including the Old Javanese epic poem Ramayana archival materials magazine advertisements commercial products and numerous interviews with Indonesian women The book offers a rich repertoire of analytical and theoretical tools that allow readers to rethink issues of race and gender in a global context and understand how feelings and emotions Western constructs as well as Indian Javanese and Indonesian notions such as rasa and malu contribute to and are constitutive of transnational and gendered processes of racialization Saraswati argues that it is how emotions come to be attached to certain objects and how they circulate that shape the emotionscape of white beauty in Indonesia Her ground breaking work is a nuanced theoretical exploration of the ways in which representations of beauty and the emotions they embody travel geographically and help shape attitudes and beliefs toward race and gender in a transnational world But is it Racial Profiling? Vikas Kiernan Gumbhir, Vikas Kumar Gumbhir, 2007

Biometrics Joseph Pugliese, 2012-12-06 Biometric technologies such as finger or facial scan are being deployed across a variety of social contexts in order to facilitate and guarantee identity verification and authentication In the post 9 11 world biometric technologies have experienced an extraordinary period of growth as concerns about security and screening have increased This book analyses biometric systems in terms of the application of biopolitical power corporate military and governmental on the human body It deploys cultural theory in examining the manner in which biometric technologies constitute the body as a target of surveillance and as a data information object The book thereby provides a comprehensive overview and critical analysis of both the local and global ramifications of biometric technologies Breaking Through the Plate Glass Window—Prophetic Fragments Michael Granzen, 2022-05-31 This is a selection of writings on themes of trauma and transformation hope and anguish in a time of reckoning The first section offers biographical fragments about life after the bulldozer runs you over How do you get up How do you live with others who don't understand How do you keep walking They draw upon life experiences in Boston Iona and New Jersey Faith is not so much about agreeing with doctrine but a dynamic active seeking questioning trust in God It includes both audacity and humility The second section draws upon fragments of historical reflection On Violent Innocence Mourning and Metanoia in New Jersey This is an exploration of the principality of white racism state based violence and exploitation of the poor It asks the question How did the Confederate flag get in the front window of the Presbyterian church on Lincoln's birthday Some of the white terrorism that happened at the Capitol is prefigured here Yet there is grace hidden in judgment We cannot heal from what we do not name The third section contains fragments of prophetic wisdom from Lorna Goodison Richard Fenn Mike Gecan Karen Hernandez Granzen and Archange Antoine Along with Traci West and Chris Hedges their voices are strong and true

About Guilt and Innocence Donald A. Dripps, 2002-12-30

This remarkably original and vital work argues that the problems are rooted in a disjunction between prevailing values and the prevailing doctrinal regime in constitutional law Dripps asserts that the Fourteenth Amendment's more general standards of due process and equal protection encompass the values that ought to govern the criminal process Why does the American criminal justice system punish too many innocent people failing to punish so many guilty parties and imposing a disproportionate burden on blacks This remarkably original and vital work argues that the problems are rooted in a disjunction between prevailing values and the prevailing doctrinal regime in constitutional law Dripps asserts that the Fourteenth Amendment's more general standards of due process and equal protection encompass the values that ought to govern the criminal process Criminal procedure ought to be about protecting the innocent punishing the guilty and doing equal justice Modern legal doctrine however hinders these pursuits by concentrating on the specific procedural safeguards contained in the Bill of Rights Dripps argues that a renewed focus on the Fourteenth Amendment would be more consistent than current law with both our values and with the legitimate sources of Constitutional law and will promote the instrumental values the criminal process ought to serve Legal and constitutional scholars will find his account of our criminal system's
