Abstract

This paper presents an overview of the Comandos distributed application platform. It begins by presenting the scope and objectives of the platform before introducing its main concepts, design choices and overall architecture. An overview of the various prototype implementations of the platform undertaken within the Comandos project is also presented. In addition, the paper provides an introduction to the other papers on Comandos in this issue and sets the context for the research reported therein.

Distributed Applications and Interoperable Systems Hartmut König, Kurt Geihs, Thomas Preuss, 1997-09-30

Distribution and interoperability in heterogeneous computing environments are the key requirements for state of the art information processing systems Distributed applications are making a critical contribution in many application sectors such as office automation finance manufacturing telecommunications aerospace and transportation Users demand support for the construction integration and management of their application systems as well as for the interoperability of independent application components DAIS 97 provides a forum for researchers application designers and users to review discuss and learn about new approaches and concepts in the fields of distributed applications DAIS 97 will especially focus on the interoperability between different applications and services different implementations of the same and of different distributed platforms

Formal Methods for Open Object-based Distributed Systems Elie Najm, Jean-Bernard Stefani, 2016-02-13 Object based Distributed Computing is being established as the most pertinent basis for the support of large heterogeneous computing and telecommunications systems The advent of Open Object based Distributed Systems OODS brings new challenges and opportunities for the use and development of formal methods Formal Methods for Open Object based Distributed Systems presents the latest research in several related fields and the exchange of ideas and experiences in a number of topics including formal models for object based distributed computing semantics of object based distributed systems and programming languages formal techniques in object based and object oriented specification analysis and design refinement and transformation of specifications multiple viewpoint modeling and consistency between different models formal techniques in distributed systems verification and testing types service types and subtyping specification verification and testing of quality of service constraints and formal methods and the object life cycle It contains the selected proceedings of the International Workshop on Formal Methods for Open Object based Distributed Systems sponsored by the International Federation for Information Processing and based in Paris France in March 1996

Open Distributed Processing K. Raymond, L. Armstrong, 2013-06-05 Open Distributed Processing contains the selected proceedings of the Third International Conference on Open Distributed Systems organized by the International Federation for Information Processing and held in Brisbane Australia in February 1995 The book deals with the interconnectivity problems that advanced computer networking raises providing those working in the area with the most recent research including security and management issues

Formal Methods for Open Object-based Distributed Systems Howard Bowman, John Derrick, 2016-01-09 This book presents the leading edge in several related fields specifically object orientated programming open distributed systems and formal methods for object oriented systems With increased support within industry regarding these areas this book captures the most up to date information on the subject Many topics are discussed including the following important areas object oriented design and programming formal specification of distributed systems open
