Millennial Dreams and Apocalyptic Nightmares Angela M. Lahr, 2007-10-31 The Religious Right came to prominence in the early 1980s but it was born during the early Cold War Evangelical leaders like Billy Graham driven by a fierce opposition to communism led evangelicals out of the political wilderness they inhabited since the Scopes trial and into a much more active engagement with the important issues of the day How did the conservative evangelical culture move into the political mainstream Angela Lahr seeks to answer this important question She shows how evangelicals who had felt marginalized by American culture drew upon their eschatological belief in the Second Coming of Christ and a subsequent glorious millennium to find common cause with more mainstream Americans who also feared a soon coming end albeit from nuclear war In the early postwar climate of nuclear fear and anticommunism the apocalyptic eschatology of premillennial dispensationalism embraced by many evangelicals meshed very well with the secular apocalyptic mood of a society equally terrified of the Bomb and of communism She argues that the development of the bomb the creation of the state of Israel and the Cuban Missile Crisis combined with evangelical end times theology to shape conservative evangelical political identity and to influence secular views Millennial beliefs influenced evangelical interpretation of these events repeatedly energized evangelical efforts and helped evangelicals view themselves and be viewed by others as a vital and legitimate segment of American culture even when it raised its voice in sharp criticism of aspects of that culture Conservative Protestants were able to take advantage of this situation to carve out a new space for their subculture within the national arena The greater legitimacy that evangelicals gained in the early Cold War provided the foundation of a power base in the national political culture that the religious right would draw on in the late seventies and early eighties The result she demonstrates was the alliance of religious and political conservatives that holds power today

H. Hinsley,Francis Harry Hinsley,1967-10 In the last years of the nineteenth century peace proposals were first stimulated by fear of the danger of war rather than in consequence of its outbreak In this study of the nature and history of international relations Mr Hinsley presents his conclusions about the causes of war and the development of men s efforts to avoid it In the first part he examines international theories from the end of the middle ages to the establishment of the League of Nations in their historical setting This enables him to show how far modern peace proposals are merely copies or elaborations of earlier schemes He believes there has been a marked reluctance to test these theories not only against the formidable criticisms of men like Rousseau Kant and Bentham but also against what we have learned about the nature of international relations and the history of the practice of states This leads him to the second part of his study an analysis of the origins of the modern states system and of its evolution between the eighteenth century and the First World War The Fourth Turning Is Here Neil Howe,2023-07-18 The visionary behind the bestselling phenomenon The Fourth Turning looks once again to America s past to predict our future in this startling and hopeful prophecy for how our present era of civil unrest will resolve over the next ten years and what our lives will look like once it has Twenty five years ago Neil Howe and the late William Strauss dazzled the world with a provocative new theory of American history Looking back at the last 500 years they d uncovered a distinct pattern modern history moves in cycles each one lasting roughly eighty to one hundred years the length of a long human life with each cycle composed of four eras or turnings that always arrive in the same order and each last about twenty years The last of these eras the fourth turning was always the most perilous a period of civic upheaval and national mobilization as traumatic and transformative as the New Deal and World War II the Civil War or the American Revolution Now right on schedule our own fourth turning has arrived And so Neil Howe has returned with an extraordinary new prediction What we see all around us the polarization the growing threat of civil conflict and global war will culminate by the early 2030s in a climax that poses great danger and yet also holds great promise perhaps even bringing on America s next golden age Every generation alive today will play a vital role in determining how this crisis is resolved for good or ill Illuminating sobering yet ultimately empowering The Fourth Turning Is Here takes you back into history and deep into the collective personality of each living generation to make sense of our current crisis explore how all of us will be differently affected by the political social and economic challenges we ll face in the decade to come and reveal how our country our communities and our families can best prepare to meet these challenges head on
