Saakana, 1987 The Colonial Legacy in Caribbean Literature Amon Saba Saakana, 1987 The author uses a variety of disciplines history politics psychoanalysis to bring a new way of looking at the history of Caribbean literature from the predominance of the European preoccupation with their Europe in the 19th century to the focus of early Caribbean writers in reproducing a colonially influenced literature in the late 19th and early 20th century Caribbean Women Writers Mary Condé, Thorunn Lonsdale, 1999-02-12 Caribbean Women Writers is a collection of scholarly articles on the fiction of selected Caribbean women writers from Antigua Barbados Belize Dominica Grenada Guyana Jamaica and Trinidad It includes not only close critical analysis of texts by Erna Brodber Dionne Brand Zee Edgell Jamaica Kincaid Paule Marshall Pauline Melville Jean Rhys and Olive Senior but also personal statements from the writers Merle Collins Beryl Gilroy Vernella Fuller and Velma Pollard Black Women, Writing and Identity Carole Boyce-Davies, 2002-09-11 Black Women Writing and Identity is an exciting work by one of the most imaginative and acute writers around The book explores a complex and fascinating set of interrelated issues establishing the significance of such wide ranging subjects as re mapping re naming and cultural crossings tourist ideologies and playful world travelling gender heritage and identity African women s writing and resistance to domination marginality effacement and decentering gender language and the politics of location Carole Boyce Davies is at the forefront of attempts to broaden the discourse surrounding the representation of and by black women and women of colour Black Women Writing and Identity represents an extraordinary achievement in this field taking our understanding of identity location and representation to new levels

Decolonization and the Other Sharon C. Sewell, 2010-04-16 In 1962 Jamaica and Trinidad and Tobago became independent countries Barbados followed in 1966 In the years leading up to these events the history of the British West Indies was written largely by the British the colonial power who focused on the process of decolonization and the key local players involved After independence local scholars also focused on the role of political leaders in the newly independent countries To date scholars have paid little attention to the impact of these events on the local populations of these islands Decolonization and the Other The Case of the British West Indies explores the local perspectives on and reactions to events by using West Indian literature to supplement the historical record Beginning in the 1930s when local demands for political participation increased through the process of decolonization and into the early years of independence West Indian writers used their life experiences to document local reaction West Indian literature first appeared in 1950 when British publishers became interested in island authors and their novels By using the novels to supplement the historical record we can gain a
