Duncan, 2008-10-30 The three waves of feminism are explored through the lives of the women who made history in bringing women s issues to the forefront of American society Many early feminists supported not only women s rights but also rights of slaves and contributed to the passing of the Thirteenth Amendment granting emancipation to slaves They continued to work towards women s suffrage and were hopeful the Fourteenth Amendment would provide universal suffrage However women were not granted suffrage until the passing of the Nineteenth Amendment nearly fifty years later It was women s fundamental need for independence and an identity of their own separate from that of men which thrust the women s movement forward and continues to propel it today Many notable women such as Susan B Anthony Elizabeth Cady Stanton Billie Jean King Betty Friedan Helen Gurley Brown Jane Fonda and Sandra Day O Connor are included in this history of the women s movement in America The biographical entries cite works for further reading and the volume closes with a bibliography The Shapers of the Great Debate series takes a biographical approach to history following the premise that people make history in the circumstances in which they find themselves Each volume in this series examines the lives and experiences of the individuals involved in a particular debate through both major and minor biographies (En)Gendering the War on Terror Kim Rygiel, 2016-03-03 The war on terror has been raging for many years now and subsequently there is a growing body of literature examining the development motivation and effects of this US led aggression Virtually absent from these accounts is an examination of the central role that gender race class and sexuality play in the war on terror This lack of attention reflects a continued resistance by analysts to acknowledge and engage identity related social issues as central elements within global politics As this conflict spreads and deepens it is more important than ever to examine how diverse international actors are using the war on terror as an opportunity to reinforce existing gendered raced classed and sexualized inter national relations This book examines the official war stories being told to the international community about why and against whom the war on terror is being waged The book will benefit students scholars and practitioners in the areas of international relations women s studies and cultural studies Cultural Studies and the 'Juridical Turn' Jaafar Aksikas, Sean Andrews, 2018-02-02 The relationship between culture and the law has become an emergent concern within contemporary Cultural Studies as a field but the recent focus has been largely limited to the role played by cultural representations and identity politics in the legitimization of legal discourse and policies While continuing this emphasis this collection also looks at the law itself as a cultural production tracing some of the specific contours of its function in the last three decades It argues that with the onset of neoliberal or late capitalism the law has taken on a new specificity and power leading to what we are calling the juridical turn where the presumed legitimacy of the law makes other forms of hegemonic struggle secondary The collection not only charts the law and cultural policy as they exert their powerful if often overlooked influence on every aspect of society and culture but it also seeks to define this important field of study and demonstrate the substantial role law plays in the production of our social and cultural worlds In this trailblazing collection of contributions by leading and emerging figures in the field of cultural legal studies chapters examine various ways in which this process is manifested such as U S legislation and Supreme Court Decisions on gay marriage immigration consumer finance welfare copyright and so called victim s rights along with international comparisons from Europe and Latin America It promises to be a pathbreaking analysis of our juridically determined conjuncture This book was originally published as a special issue of Cultural Studies

A Critical Rewriting of Global Political Economy V. Spike Peterson, 2004-03-01 Moving beyond a narrow definition of economics this pioneering book advances our knowledge of global political economy and how we might critically respond to it V Spike Peterson clearly shows how two key features of the global economy increasingly determine everyday lives worldwide The first is explosive growth in financial markets that shape business decision making and public policy making and the second is dramatic growth in informal and flexible work arrangements that shape income generation and family wellbeing These developments though widely recognized are rarely analyzed as inextricable and interacting dimensions of globalization Using a new theoretical model Peterson demonstrates the interdependence of reproductive productive and virtual economies and analyzes inequalities of race gender class and nation as structural features of neoliberal globalization Presenting a methodologically plural cross disciplinary and well documented account of globalization the author integrates marginalized and disparate features of globalization to provide an accessible narrative from a postcolonial feminist vantage point

Our Separate Ways, With a New Preface and Epilogue Ella Bell Smith, Stella M. Nkomo, 2021-08-10 Named to the shortlist for the 2021 Outstanding Works of Literature OWL Award in the Women in Business Category Addressing gender alone won t help women rise to the top Although women come from widely diverse backgrounds they share a common assumption upon entering the workforce I have a chance Along the way however they discover that people question their authority challenge their intelligence and discount their ideas And while gender is a common denominator among these women race and class are often wedges between them In Our Separate Ways Ella Bell Smith and Stella M Nkomo take an unflinching look at the surprising differences between Black and White women s trials and triumphs on their way to the top Based on groundbreaking research the book compares and contrasts the experiences of 120 Black and White female managers in America Powerful stories bring to life the women s often difficult journeys from childhood to professional success highlighting the roles that gender race and class played in their development Now with an updated preface and epilogue the book provides candid discussions of the continuing challenge of achieving race and gender equality in the midst of deep political and ideological divides You ll discover how White women have perhaps unwittingly aligned themselves more often with White men than with Black women and how systemic racism and biases still exist in organizations But you ll also learn what to do to leverage the talents of all women and eliminate systemic racism for good Whether you lead an organization or simply want to better understand the dynamics at play in business today you ll discover provocative ideas for creating a better workplace and encouraging equality for everyone

Transnational American Spaces Tina Powell, Patricia Sagasti Suppes, 2022-06-07 As people migrate they face the need to create a stable space within a disconcertingly unfamiliar environment This experience of creating new spaces opens opportunities for positive transcultural connections however these opportunities can also serve as the disciplining of the migrant body This text focuses on the movement of bodies in transnational communities and the formation of domestic and communal spaces that provide respite from migratory paths negotiate transnational relationships or establish a new home In doing so we explore literary texts that question challenge and deepen our understanding of the experience of migration through the use of space and place The texts in question examine three levels of transnational spaces intimate spaces such as family personal growth or sexuality inherited spaces reflected in generational conflicts religious identity and inherited histories and national spaces that look at issues of broader national identities The texts we examine engage with transnational communities within the United States and the ways in which narratives reimagine new space to negotiate change and create new norms These narratives can sometimes bridge both cultures or can sometimes result in a violent sense of displacement Each chapter problematizes a different aspect of transcultural adaptation and the geographic ties of each community focus reflect the multicultural reality of the U S with connections to Asia the Caribbean Europe the Middle East and Latin America

Globalizing Concern for Women's Human Rights D. Zoelle, 2015-12-24 This study is a critique of the institutional structures and cultural dynamics that pose obstructions to U S ratification The United States is a liberal democratic state founded upon ideals of freedom and equality thus the history of non ratification of major international human rights treaties appears to be an anomaly This book suggests that it is not Liberal democracy as it was conceived and has developed in the United States is problematic as a model in the globalization of concern for women s human rights This study is not a comparative examination of state exclusion and oppression of women Neither is it an attempt to distinguish the United States in the larger sense from other Western liberal democratic regimes in its treatment of women Rather the study is a gender sensitive examination of specific dynamics and characteristics inherent to the socio political economic and legal systems of the United States which have precluded incorporation of the rights of women on an equal basis with the rights of men The interaction of these dynamics and characteristics describes a uniquely American view of itself and its own history which serves to render the U S system troublesome as an exemplar for state incorporation of the human rights of women Unreserved ratification of CEDAW constitutes a strong indication of effort by the ratifying state to protect the human rights of women The United States has refused to ratify CEDAW from scratch or transforming human nature in order to achieve a prescribed future based on feminist visions. Some scholars argue that feminist utopian fiction can be used as a template for creating such a future. However, Sally L. Kitch argues that associating feminist thought with utopianism is a mistake. Drawing on the history of utopian thought as well as on her own research on utopian communities, Kitch defines utopian thinking, explores the pitfalls of pursuing social change based on utopian ideas, and argues for a higher ground, a contrasting approach she calls realism. Replacing utopianism with realism helps to eliminate self-defeating notions in feminist theory such as false generalization, idealization, and unnecessary dichotomies. Realistic thought, however, allows feminist theory to respond to changing circumstances, acknowledge sameness as well as difference, value the past and the present, and respect ideological give and take. An important critique of feminist thought, Kitch concludes with a clear, exciting vision for a feminist future without utopia.

Higher Ground Sally Kitch, 2000-07 Many feminists love a utopia the idea of restarting humanity

Engendering Curriculum

History Petra Hendry, 2011-05-20 How can curriculum history be re-envisioned from a feminist poststructuralist perspective? Engendering Curriculum History disrupts dominant notions of history as linear, as inevitable progress, and as embedded in the individual. This conversation requires a history that seeks remembrance, not representation; reflexivity, not linearity; and responsibility, not truth. Rejecting a compensatory approach to rewriting history, which leaves dominant historical categories and periodization intact, Hendry examines how the narrative structures of curriculum histories are implicated in the construction of gendered subjects. Five central chapters take up a particular discourse: wisdom, the body, colonization, progressivism, and pragmatism, to excavate the subject identities made possible across time and space. Curriculum history is understood as an emergent, not a finished process; as an unending dialogue that creates spaces for conversation in which multiple, conflicting, paradoxical, and contradictory interpretations can be generated as a means to stimulate more questions, not grand narratives.

Women, Civil Society and the Geopolitics of Democratization

Denise M. Horn, 2010-04-19 Over the past decade, democratization and civil society promotion became key variables in preserving global security and the liberal economic market. This book examines the prevalence of democratization policies as a hegemonic geopolitical tool; these policies represent a concerted political effort in which civil society organizations are manipulated through funding strategies. Denise Horn offers a fresh, innovative feminist constructivist perspective by arguing that Western gender norms, i.e., those norms that determine degrees of participation within civil society, inform the policies of hegemonic powers and transform the foundations of civil society in transitional states. This powerful volume will be of interest to students and scholars in Gender and Women's Studies, Political Science, and International Relations.

Conceiving the New World

Order Faye D. Ginsburg, Rayna Rapp, 1995-07-31 This volume provides an investigation of the dynamics of reproduction. Using reproduction as an entry point, the authors examine how cultures are produced, contested, and transformed as people imagine their collective future in the creation of the next generation.
