Rudwick, 2023-04-14 The science of geology was constructed in the decades around 1800 from earlier practices that had been significantly different in their cognitive goals In the studies collected here Martin Rudwick traces how it came to be recognised as a new kind of natural science because it was constituted around the idea that the natural world had its own history The earth had to be understood not only in relation to unchanging natural laws that could be observed in action in the present but also in terms of a pre human past that could be reliably known even if not directly observable and its traces only fragmentarily preserved In contrast to this radically novel sense of nature's own contingent history the earth's unimaginably vast timescale was already taken for granted by many naturalists though not yet by the wider public and the concurrent development of biblical scholarship precluded any significant sense of conflict with religious tradition A companion volume Lyell and Darwin Geologists Studies in the Earth Sciences in the Age of Reform was published in 2005 Journals of the House of Commons Great Britain House of Commons, 1803 Romantic Art in Practice Thora Brylowe, 2019 Explores the developing cultural tensions and connections that created a sister art movement between creative visual art and its literary counterparts Iconology Cesare Ripa, George Richardson, 1779 Time in Romantic Theatre Frederick Burwick, 2022-06-01 The shift in temporal modalities of Romantic Theatre was the consequence of internal as well as external developments internally the playwright was liberated from the old imperative of Unity of Time and the expectation that the events of the play must not exceed the hours of a single day externally the new social and cultural conformance to the time keeping schedules of labour and business that had become more urgent with the industrial revolution In reviewing the
