O Tommy what a funny little woman come and see cried Harry Wilde as he stood at the window of his father's house in a pleasant English town Tommy ran to the window and looked out and laughed louder than his brother It was indeed a funny sight to see In the midst of a pelting rain through mud and running water there waddled along the queerest quaintest little roly poly figure you can imagine It was a dwarf woman who though no taller than a child of seven or eight years wore an enormous bonnet and carried an overgrown umbrella Her clothes were tucked up about her in a queer way and altogether she was a very laugh at able little creature As she passed she looked up and such an odd face as she had The nose was large and long as though it had kept on growing after the other features gave out Indeed it was so big that the eyes had got into a way of looking at it constantly which did not improve their beauty The hair was bushy and of a lively red but the mouth was quite sweet and good humored and the little crossed eyes had a merry kindly twinkle in them Stories from Many Lands ,1883 Stories of Many Lands (Classic Reprint) Grace Greenwood, 2017-04-21
