Routledge Handbook of Islam in the West Roberto Tottoli, 2022-02-21 With new topics and contributions this updated second edition discusses the history and contemporary presence of Islam in Europe and America. The book debates the relevance and multi-faceted participation of Muslims in the dynamics of Western societies challenging the changing perception on both sides. Collating over 30 chapters written by experts from around the world, the volume presents a wide range of perspectives. Case studies from the Muslim presence in the Iberian Peninsula between the Middle Ages and the modern age set off the Handbook along with an outline of Muslims in America up to the twentieth century. The second part covers concepts around new conditions in terms of consolidating identities, the emergence of new Muslim actors, the appearance of institutions and institutional attitudes, the effects of Islamic presence on the arts and landscapes of the West and the relational dynamics like ethics and gender. Exploring the influence of Islam, particularly its impact on society, culture and politics, this interdisciplinary volume is a key resource for policymakers, academics and students interested in the history of Islam, religion and the contemporary relationship between Islam and the West.

Feminist Manifestos Penny A. Weiss, Megan Brueske, 2018-04-03 This book is a collection of 150 documents from feminist organizations and gatherings in over 50 countries over the course of three centuries. The manifestos are shown to contain feminist theory and recommend actions for change and also to expand our very conceptions of feminist thought and activism. Covering issues from political participation, education, religion and work to reproduction, violence, racism and environmentalism, the manifestos challenge definitions of gender and feminist movements.

Reading in a Second Language Xi Chen, Vedran Dronjic, Rena Helms-Park, 2015-11-19 Reading in a Second Language offers a comprehensive survey of the phenomenon and process of reading in a second language with graduate and upper-level undergraduate students in second language acquisition, psycholinguistics and applied psychology as its primary audience. The book explores reading processes from a number of complementary standpoints, integrating perspectives from fields such as first and second language reading, second language acquisition, linguistics, psycholinguistics and cognitive neuroscience. The first half examines major factors in second language reading: types of scripts, the cognitive and neural substrates of reading, metalinguistic awareness, word recognition, language transfer and lexical knowledge. The second part of the book discusses the social and educational contexts in which reading development occurs, including issues related to pedagogy, the use of technology in the classroom, reading disorders and policy making. Reading in a Second Language provides students with a full, logically organized overview of the primary factors that shape reading development and processes in a second language Not by Nature but by Grace Gilbert C.

Meilaender, 2016-09-15 Working from within the contours of Christian faith this book examines the relation between two ways of forming families through nature by procreation and through history by adoption Christians honor the biological tie between parents and children for it is the work of God in creation Yet Christians cannot forget that it is adoption and not simply natural descent that is at the center of the New Testament's depiction of God's grace Gilbert Meilaender takes up a range of issues raised by the practice of adoption always seeking to do justice to both nature and history in the formation of families while keeping at the center of our vision the truth that it is not by nature but by grace that we can become adopted children of the one whom Jesus called his Father Meilaender begins with reflection on the puzzling relation of nature and history in forming families and proceeds to unpack the meaning of huiothesia the word used in the New Testament to name the grace by which a follower of Jesus becomes an adopted child of God That perspective is applied to a range of questions that regularly arise in Christian theological discussions of adoption Is adoption only for the infertile Should single persons adopt Is it wise for adoption to take place across racial or national boundaries Special attention is paid to the relation between adoption and new reproductive technologies and to what is called embryo adoption Interspersed between the chapters are letters written by the author to his own son by adoption But if the argument of the book is taken seriously these letters are written not to one who falls within a special category of adopted son or daughter but to one who is simply and entirely a son or daughter The Politics of Personal Law in South Asia Partha S. Ghosh, 2018-05-11 The viability of the Uniform Civil Code UCC has always been a bone of contention in socially and politically plural South Asia It is entangled within the polemics of identity politics minority rights women's rights national integration uniform citizenry and of late global Islamic politics and universal human rights While champions of each category view the issue from their own perspectives making the debate extremely complex this book takes up the challenge of providing a holistic political analysis As most of the South Asian states today subscribe to a decentralised view and share a common history this study is an excellent comparative analysis of the applicability of the UCC In this work India figures prominently being the most plural and vibrant democracy as well as accounting for almost three fourths of the region's population This provides the backdrop for an analysis of the other states in the region This second edition will be indispensable for scholars researchers and students of law political science and South Asian Studies
