Stir What You've Got William T. Greer, 2023-09-01 These are stories about an average young man who grew up among talented people These talented people raised him and so many others We were exceptional in that we picked up their dreams for us and made them ours We became the farmers lawyers doctors and teachers who made our town and South Georgia very special This volume reminds us that dreams can come true This was probably the last generation of teachers mostly women who opened the door of hope far wider than any of us had ever dreamed We were among so many brilliant people Regardless of where you grew up you had teachers like them For me there were people like Mrs Mitchell Mrs Crum Coaches Davis and Tucker Mrs Agnew Andrews Brown Mrs Tabor and a host of others Our parents gave us opportunities they never had Every name in these pages made a huge difference in the lives they touched Our world needs again and again what we found in our little country town May those hearing these stories for the first second or third time be inspired to tell them over and over In Pursuit of the Almighty's Dollar James Hudnut-Beumler, 2007-03-05 Every day again They are your stories Claim them of the week in contemporary America and especially on Sundays people raise money for their religious enterprises for clergy educators buildings charity youth oriented work and more In a fascinating look into the economics of American Protestantism James Hudnut Beumler examines how churches have raised and spent money from colonial times to the present and considers what these practices say about both religion and American culture After the constitutional separation of church and state was put in force Hudnut Beumler explains clergy salaries had to be collected exclusively from the congregation without recourse to public funds In adapting to this change Protestants forged a new model that came to be followed in one way or another by virtually all religious organizations in the country Clergy repeatedly invoked God ecclesiastical tradition and scriptural evidence to promote giving to the churches they served Hudnut Beumler contends that paying for earthly good works done in the name of God has proved highly compatible with American ideas of enterprise materialism and individualism The financial choices Protestants have made throughout history how money was given expended or even withheld have reflected changing conceptions of what the religious enterprise is all about Hudnut Beumler tells that story for the first time Stir what You've Got! and Other Stewardship Studies Raymond E.
