Food Security for the Faint of Heart Robin Wheeler, 2008-09-01

There are books you merely read. There are books you read, recommend to others and pass along. Then there are those books you read, lay aside, jump to your feet, throw your hands in the air and holler. Yes, Food Security for the Faint of Heart is one of the latter. Robin Wheeler has managed to extract logic from hysteria, package it with a strong environmental perspective, an abundance of practical suggestions and enough good humour to make this a must have for every soul interested in surviving whatever natural disaster comes along. Wheeler wastes no time in addressing the central theme of her book. Anything can happen, so you better be prepared, and here's how. In her impressive list of Good Things to Have in an Emergency, she catalogues essential items including lesser touted items such as cooking oil and salt. If Wheeler has done anything by writing this book, she's pulled the proverbial rug from under our feet when it comes to excuses for not eating well through any disaster. Reviewed by Linda Wegner, Country Life in BC.

Where would you find your groceries if your supermarket's shelves were suddenly empty? The threat of earthquakes, trucker strikes, power outages or a global market collapse makes us vulnerable like never before. With spiraling fuel prices and unstable world economies, individuals and communities are demanding more control over their food supply. Food Security for the Faint of Heart is designed to gently ease readers into a more empowered place so that shocks to our food supply can be handled confidently. As well as acquiring new skills and ideas, there are other compelling reasons to get better prepared. The local economy gains support and encouragement to expand in turn, boosting food's taste and nutritional value along with the health of people and ecosystems. Community support helps low income families eat higher quality food and the preparation provides a psychological edge in an emergency. Chapters are devoted to useful transferable skills including Preserving garden food, Saving freezer food during a power outage, Managing through an earthquake, Preparing quick herbal medicinals, Foraging for wild food. A humorous treatment of a sometimes threatening topic, this book will appeal to both long time food security advocates and newcomers to the topic who are wary of it all and would prefer to avoid it. Robin Wheeler teaches traditional skills, sustenance gardening and medicinals at Edible Landscapes, www.ediblelandscapes.ca, a nursery and teaching garden in Roberts Creek, British Columbia. She is also the author of Gardening for the Faint of Heart, New Catalyst Books.

The Knowledge Lewis Dartnell, 2015-03-10 How would you go about rebuilding a technological society from scratch If our technological society collapsed tomorrow what would be the one book you would want to press into the hands of the postapocalyptic survivors What crucial knowledge would they need to survive in the immediate aftermath and to rebuild civilization as quickly as possible Human knowledge is collective distributed across the population It has built on itself for centuries becoming vast and increasingly specialized Most of us are ignorant about the fundamental principles of the civilization that supports us happily utilizing the latest or even the most basic technology without having the slightest idea of why it works or how it came to be If you had to go back to absolute basics like some sort of postcataclysmic Robinson Crusoe would you know how to re create an internal combustion engine put together a microscope get metals out of rock or even how to produce food for yourself Lewis Dartnell proposes that the key to preserving civilization in an apocalyptic scenario is to provide a quickstart guide adapted to cataclysmic circumstances The Knowledge describes many of the modern technologies we employ but first it explains the fundamentals upon which they are built Every piece of technology rests on an enormous support network of other technologies all interlinked and mutually dependent You can't hope to build a radio for example without understanding how to acquire the raw materials it requires as well as generate the electricity needed to run it But Dartnell doesn't just provide specific information for starting over he also reveals the greatest invention of them all the phenomenal knowledge generating machine that is the scientific method itself The Knowledge is a brilliantly original guide to the fundamentals of science and how it built our modern world
