Please put everything aside and try to get ahold of Sarah Kendzior's collected essays The View from Flyover Country. I have rarely come across writing that is as urgent and beautifully expressed. What makes Kendzior's writing so truly important is that it documents where the problem lies by somebody who lives there. The Wire. Sarah Kendzior is as harsh and tenacious a critic of the Trump administration as you'll find. She isn't some new kid on the political block or a controversy machine. Rather, she is a widely published journalist and anthropologist who has spent much of her life studying authoritarianism. Columbia Tribune

Racial Exhaustion Ralina L. Joseph, 2025-12-02 How to build stamina to confront racial exhaustion and communicate differently about race. In the wake of diversity, equity, and inclusion initiatives, many Americans, regardless of race, find themselves exhausted by conversations about race and racism. People of color continue to bear the weight of systemic racism while also shouldering the burden of explaining and confronting daily microaggressions. White people, whether allies or skeptics, often feel defensive, fatigued, or uncertain about how to engage in discussions about race. Across the spectrum, the result is the same: exhaustion. Drawing from her experience running Interrupting Privilege, a racial dialogue program, Ralina Joseph blends personal narrative, real-world dialogue, and critical race scholarship to explore how we communicate race today and how we can do better. Through practices of deep listening, embracing discomfort, and interrupting microaggressions, this book guides readers in transforming everyday interactions into opportunities for anti-racist change. Racial Exhaustion challenges us to recognize and address the fatigue that racial discourse brings while offering practical strategies to foster more equitable and productive conversations.
