Scott Rohrer,2010-03-01 Popular literature and frontier studies stress that Americans moved west to farm or to seek a new beginning Scott Rohrer argues that Protestant migrants in early America relocated in search of salvation Christian community reform or all three In Wandering Souls Rohrer examines the migration patterns of eight religious groups and finds that Protestant migrations consisted of two basic types The most common type involved migrations motivated by religion economics and family in which Puritans Methodists Moravians and others headed to the frontier as individuals in search of religious and social fulfillment The other type involved groups wanting to escape persecution such as the Mormons or to establish communities where they could practice their faith in peace such as the Inspirationists Rohrer concludes that the two migration types shared certain traits despite the great variety of religious beliefs and experiences and that secular values infused the behavior of nearly all Protestant migrants Religion s role in transatlantic migrations is well known but its importance to the famed mobility of Americans is far less understood Wandering Souls demonstrates that Protestantism greatly influenced internal migration and the social and economic development of early America Traffic World and Traffic Bulletin ,1909 Tascosa Frederick W. Nolan,2007 The ranching boom of the 1880s made the Texas Panhandle town of Tascosa the cowboy capital of the world Through it passed many people good and bad who made history in the West Yet when the large ranches broke up Tascosa disappeared as quickly as it had risen Provided by publisher Pacific Rural Press ,1909
