Stories From Trans:

To Be A Trans Man Ezra Woodger, 2022-10-21 Men in all stages of transition have come and gone from my life and each one has been entirely different. It's difficult to feel as if you fail at being a man when you know there isn't a singular right way to be one. In this illuminating and radically honest book, Ezra Woodger interviews trans men and transmasculine people to interrogate what masculinity is and what it means to be a man. Covering a wide range of topics from dealing with judgement and expectations both external and internal to the experience of gender euphoria, finding a community, and the growth and openness that trans inclusive spaces can provide, the stories in this book highlight the power of being true to who you are. With contributions from trans men from across the UK and US, including Fox Fisher, Ezra Michel, and many more, their words offer comfort, guidance, and an important reminder of the joy and strength of existing as a trans man regardless of how you look.

The Realist Short Story of the Powerful Glimpse Kerry McSweeney, 2007 An aesthetic perspective on the short fiction of Chekhov, Joyce, Hemingway, O'Connor, and Carver. Taking a distinctively aesthetic approach to the genre of realist short fiction, Kerry McSweeney clusters the work of five masters: Anton Chekhov, James Joyce, Ernest Hemingway, Flannery O'Connor, and Raymond Carver, to offer a poetics of the form for students and scholars. At the center of this argument is the notion that the realist short story is a glimpse, powerful and tightly focused, into a world that the writer must precisely craft and in which the reader must fully invest. Selecting writers from different generational, national, and cultural backgrounds, McSweeney chooses writers based on their commitment to the realist representation of experience and their shared belief in the importance and efficacy of the short story form. By considering their efforts in tandem, he develops a means to assess the strategies and claims of realist short fiction. McSweeney demonstrates that when the comments these writers have made about their work are assembled and critically scrutinized, the result is an aesthetic critical model, as opposed to more interpretative models that focus attention on the determination or indetermination of meanings. He suggests that a fully adequate reading of a realist short story involves the integration of three components: the enjoyment and contemplation of the story in and of itself; affective receptivity, or a response to the story's emotional content; and cognitive activity, or the reflective consideration of the story's conceptual implications. In individual chapters on Chekhov, Joyce, Hemingway, O'Connor, and Carver, this presentational model is applied to widely known and often anthologized readings from each writer. McSweeney brings into sharp focus the distinctive features of each piece, makes qualitative discriminations, and assesses the profitability of other critical models. He concludes with an invitation to test the mettle of his approach in reading other realist short story writers.
