Ecopoetics and the Global Landscape Isabel Sobral Campos, 2018-12-27 Ecopoetics and the Global Landscape Critical Essays surveys ecopoetry from a global perspective across different historical epochs Its comparative approach foregrounds the importance of ecopoetics within the context of distinct national literatures and cultures to reveal the ubiquitous intersection of poetry with ecocriticism The collection analyzes environmental problems resulting from the legacies of colonialism and focuses on issues of environmental justice and indigenous issues as well as on the intersection of genocide studies and environmentalism It also examines ecologically informed modes of relating to the world In particular it engages with interactions between the human and nonhuman as well as mind and matter Finally it broadens the scope of place to include both the absent land of exiled peoples and the urban built environment Native American Studies Clara Sue Kidwell, 2005-01-01 Native American Studies covers key issues such as the intimate relationship of culture to land the nature of cultural exchange and conflict in the period after European contact the unique relationship of Native communities with the United States government the significance of language the vitality of contemporary cultures and the variety of Native artistic styles from literature and poetry to painting and sculpture to performance arts All Our Stories Are Here Brady Harrison, 2009-01-01 This wide ranging collection of essays addresses a diverse and expanded vision of Montana literature offering new readings of both canonical and overlooked texts Although a handful of Montana writers such as Richard Hugo A B Guthrie Jr D Arcy McNickle and James Welch have received considerable critical attention sizable gaps remain in the analysis of the state s ever growing and ever evolving canon The twelve essays in All Our Stories Are Here not only build on the exemplary foundational work of other writers but also open further interpretative and critical conversations Expanding on the critical paradigms of the past and bringing to bear some of the latest developments in literary and cultural studies the contributors engage issues such as queer ambivalence in Montana writing representations of the state in popular romances and the importance of the University of Montana s creative writing program in fostering the state s literary corpus The contributors also explore the work of writers who have not yet received their critical due take new looks at old friends and offer some of the first explorations of recent works by well established artists All Our Stories Are Here conveys a sense of continuity in the field of Western literary criticism while at the same time challenging conventional approaches to regional literature That the People Might Live Jace Weaver, 1997-12-18 Loyalty to the community is the highest value in Native American cultures argues Jace Weaver In That the People Might Live he explores a wide range of Native American literature from 1768 to the present taking this sense of community as both a starting point and a lens Weaver considers some of the best known Native American writers such as Leslie Marmon Silko, Gerald Vizenor, and Vine Deloria as well as many others who are receiving critical attention here for the first time. He contends that the single thing that most defines these authors' writings and makes them deserving of study as a literature separate from the national literature of the United States is their commitment to Native community and its survival. He terms this commitment communitism, a fusion of community and activism. The Native American authors are engaged in an ongoing quest for community and write out of a passionate commitment to it. They write literally that the People might live. Drawing upon the best Native and non-Native scholarship, including the emerging postcolonial discourse as well as a close reading of the writings themselves, Weaver adds his own provocative insights to help readers to a richer understanding of these too often neglected texts. A scholar of religion, he also sets this literature in the context of Native cultures and religious traditions and explores the tensions between these traditions and Christianity.
