Stephen T Ross Michael Sandel Andrew M Simons Melvin L Warren Jr Paddlefish Aquaculture Steven D. Mims, William L. Shelton, 2015-06-29 Paddlefish have become of increasing interest to the aquaculture community in recent years particularly as a potential new source of seafood and caviar Native to North America paddlefish show great promise both domestically and internationally as a commercially viable farmed species Paddlefish Aquaculture examines all aspects of the biology and culture of these fish exploring their physiology production end products and the economics underlying a successful paddlefish operation Chapters specifically cover paddlefish biology propagation and early culture techniques production for meat and caviar international culture and history paddlefish food products bioaccumulants of contaminants in paddlefish parasites and diseases and the economics of paddlefish aquaculture Paddlefish Aquaculture is a timely practical reference for researchers and producers interested in paddlefish Environmental Biology of the Young Chinese Sturgeon Feng Zhao, Ping Zhuang, Tao Zhang, 2024-10-12 This book provides a comprehensive coverage of the advances in biology and conservation research on Chinese sturgeon in the Yangtze Estuary The chapters feature the latest developments in Chinese sturgeon research and cover topics such as early development and ontogenetic behaviour growth and feeding ecophysiology ecotoxicology population dynamics conservation management etc The volume not only lays a foundation for the research and conservation of Chinese sturgeon but also provides references for other sturgeons It is an invaluable reference for sturgeon researchers The translation was done with the help of artificial intelligence A subsequent human revision was done primarily in terms of content Sturgeon biodiversity and conservation Vadim J. Birstein, John R. Waldman, William E. Bemis, 2005-12-09 Selected reviewed and revised papers from the International Conference on Sturgeon Biodiversity and Conservation held at The American Museum of Natural History in New York on 28-30 July 1994 Biology, Conservation and Sustainable Development of Sturgeons Ramón Carmona, Alberto Domezain, Manuel García Gallego, José Antonio Hernando, Fernando Rodríguez, Manuel Ruiz-Rejón, 2008-11-09 Sturgeons are considered living fossils sharing many morphological and biological features with ancestral fish Furthermore sturgeons are of the utmost interest from an economic perspective not only for the caviar but for the flesh However the wild populations of the majority of the species are at serious risk of extinction all over the world So it is urgent to develop strategies for both farming culture and conservation and recovery in natural habitats This book provides a comprehensive view of the biology and sustainable development of sturgeons putting emphasis on the Southern Europe autochthonous species such as Acipenser naccarii and Acipenser sturio that share geographical distribution Other relevant species such as Huso huso A. oxyrinchus A. ruthenus A. stellatus and areas Germany Russia North America are also considered The contents are organised in three sections Taxonomy and Biogeography including the morphological and genetic analyses that clarify the taxonomy and phylogeny of sturgeons focused on those from Southern Europe Biology and Aquaculture where several aspects of the developmental biology feeding and reproduction are considered in relation to the improvement of sturgeon farming and Recovery and Conservation that collates and analyses different recovery research actions the ecology of the rivers for restoration as well as the problems related to the trade of caviar Rescue of Sturgeon Species in the Ural River Basin Viktor Lagutov, 2008-10-22 While almost every aspect of society nature interactions can be treated as an environmental security issue the threats to human societies originating from inadequate freshwater management constitute one of the most widespread and pressing problems For thousands of years rivers and river valleys have been the cradle of human civilizations Rivers have provided not only food and freshwater but also shelter and means of transportation and they are still an essential component in every national and regional economy In turn growing needs of human societies accompanied by growing abilities have caused significant river alterations and ecosystem changes that have resulted in river contamination biodiversity loss and general riverine ecosystem degradation The extinction of sturgeon species is one of the most eloquent examples of the negative and irreversible influence of human society on river ecosystems The sturgeon sometimes called the living fossil or living dinosaur of the fish world is known to have lived since the time of the dinosaurs for at least 250 million years and is currently on the verge of extinction solely due to anthropogenic impacts Osiris, Volume 40 Tamar Novick, Lisa Onaga, Gabriel N. Rosenberg, 2025-07-14 Situates animal mobility within the politics of movement opening new perspectives in the history of science Human societies often come to know the natural world by examining animals even as animals frequently both willful and animate can elude human grasps and challenge human aims Animals and their movements have underpinned many methodological moral and epistemic dilemmas that generatively trouble the field Featuring a range of geographies species languages and cultures the contributions in this volume broaden the view of the historical roles animals play in knowledge production processes Organized according to three scales of animal movement individuals groups systems the twelve richly illustrated inquiries are situated in different time periods from the sixteenth century Ottoman Empire to the recent globalized past and introduce varied forms capacities and politics of movement associated with animals The analytic attention to animal mobility deepens comprehension of animal agency and human animal interactions in unexpected spaces including airports entertainment venues living rooms dirt roads and waterways Taken together the case studies in this volume reconsider how where and by whom science is done Ecology of North American Freshwater Fishes Stephen T. Ross Ph. D., 2013-06-01 The North American freshwater fish fauna is the most diverse and thoroughly researched temperate fish fauna in the world Ecology of North American Freshwater Fishes is the only textbook to provide advanced undergraduate and graduate students and researchers with an up to date and integrated view of the ecological and evolutionary concepts principles and processes involved in the formation and maintenance of this fauna Ecology of North American Freshwater Fishes provides readers with a broad understanding of why specific species and assemblages occur in particular places Additionally the text explores how individuals and species interact with each other and with their environments how such interactions have been altered by anthropogenic impacts and the relative success of efforts to restore damaged ecosystems This book is designed for use in courses related to aquatic and fish ecology fish biology ichthyology and related advanced ecology and conservation courses and is divided into five sections for ease of use Chapter summaries supplemental reading lists online sources extensive figures and color photography are included to guide readers through the material and facilitate student learning Part 1 Faunal origins evolution and diversity Presents a broad picture both spatially and temporally of the derivation of the fauna including global and regional geological and climatological processes and their effects on North American fishes Part 2 Formation maintenance and persistence of local populations and assemblages Focuses on how local fish populations and assemblages are formed and how they persist or not through time Part 3 Form and function Deals with the relationship of body form and life history patterns as they are related to ecological functions Part 4 Interactions among individuals and species Discusses the numerous interactions among individuals and species through communication competition predation mutualism and facilitation Part 5 Issues in conservation Focuses on several primary conservation issues such as flow alterations and the increasing biotic homogenization of faunas
