Subject Matter Poems:

Subjects in Poetry Daniel Brown, 2021-11-17 Daniel Brown's Subjects in Poetry is the first book to examine the broad and imposing topic of poetic subject matter probing both what poems are about and how that influences the way they're made. It comprises one poet's attempt to plumb the nature of his art to ask how the selection of material remains a crucial yet unexplored area of poetic craft and to suggest the vast range of possible subjects for poems. The book begins by venturing a novel definition of subject derived from Robert Frost's dictum that poetry constitutes an art of having something to say. Brown posits that a poem can say something by expressing evoking or addressing. He considers each of these ways of saying in turn first defining it and then looking at poems in which it predominates. Brown next makes a wide-ranging case for the value of subjects to poems, poets and the art of poetry especially at a time when many poems appear subjectless. He concludes the book with practical guidance on finding subjects improving them and realizing their potential. Replete with thoughtful readings of poems both classic and contemporary Subjects in Poetry should appeal to poets across all levels and readers interested in understanding the art and practice of poetry.

Yemeni Poetry on the Frontline Roberta Morano, Janet C.E. Watson, James Dickins, 2025-02-28 Yemeni Poetry on the Frontline investigates popular literary responses to conflict in the different regions of Yemen comparing responses to and expressions of traditional conflict with those to the new externally fuelled conflict. In its engagement with diasporic Yemeni communities in the UK the book explores how storytelling and poetry might heighten and enhance both political and public awareness of the situation in Yemen and lead to wider cultural understanding of diasporic and refugee communities in the UK. The novelty lies in the focus on literary expressions of conflict and conflict resolution and the bringing together of projects dealing with the diverse regions of Yemen. This book will primarily appeal to scholars in Yemeni poetry, Arabic literature, Arabic dialectology and anthropological linguistics.

A History of Contemporary Chinese Literature Zicheng Hong,2007-10-15 This groundbreaking book by the eminent Peking University professor Hong Zicheng covers the literary scene in China during the 1949 1999 period primarily focusing on fiction poetry drama and prose writing Reprinted sixteen times since its publication in the PRC in 1999 it is now available in English translation at last The first section of the book deals with the 1949 1976 period Often derided and ignored as an arid era for literature by both Chinese and overseas critics Professor Hong describes the literature that was popular and officially acceptable at the time and the cultural policies and political campaigns that shaped the tastes of readers and the literary creativity of writers during the period This part of the book is remarkable for Professor Hong s candidness and open mindedness qualities that would have made this text difficult to publish at an earlier date in China Furthermore the platform that the first part of the text provides renders the second part even more understandable to readers unfamiliar with the post 1976 literary scene and offers new insights to those who are familiar with it demonstrating as it does the close links between the two distinctive eras These links are provided by the resumption of literary traditions that had been more or less abandoned during the preceding ten year period as well as reactions against literature nurtured and guided by the state cultural apparatus The second part of the book consists of a comprehensive description of developments and insightful explanations of those developments in the literary arts and literary criticism since 1976 A unique and much needed accomplishment in contemporary literary studies Also available in paperback
