Sudden Infant Death Enduring The Loss:

Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Dawne J. Gurbutt, 2007 This insightful guide is based on real life accounts from mothers who have experienced Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Focusing on grief motherhood and maternal identity the book is an intriguing read often upsetting yet desperately compelling

Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, 1994

When a Baby Dies of SIDS Karen Martin, 2017-07-12 The cause of the number one killer of apparently healthy infants between the ages of one week and one year Sudden Infant Death Syndrome SIDS continues to defy science This cruel mystery intensifies an already painful experience for bereaved parents who frequently blame themselves for their baby's death This book explores how parents grieve the meanings and casual explanations they attribute to a SIDS death the effects of their grief on family relationships and the strategies they use to cope and carry on Karen Martin's grounded theory study describes in detail the experiences of mothers and fathers whose babies died of SIDS ranging from less than one to over twenty five years after the baby's death Her work makes an important contribution to health fields and to the social science of medicine and is a critical resource for family doctors public health nurses counsellors ministers and all those working with grieving parents

Mothers Bereaved by Stillbirth, Neonatal Death or Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Frances M. Boyle, 2018-10-26 First published in 1997 this volume studied families bereaved by perinatal or infant death including factors both preceding and following the experience and its effect on areas such as marriage mental health and future conception based on interviews with 194 women living in south eastern Queensland Australia Tracing the natural history of the first thirty months of their loss all mothers completed semi structured interviews and standardized questionnaires at two eight fifteen and thirty months following the baby's death The study aims to explain and explore these effects and to suggest some potential recommendations for the care and support of women who experience stillbirth neonatal death or SIDS

Palliative Care for Infants, Children, and Adolescents Brian S. Carter, Marcia Levetown, Sarah E. Friebe, 2011-10-15 There are few things requiring more expertise delicacy and compassion than caring for an infant child or young adult with a life limiting condition This guide provides professionals involved in pediatric palliative and end of life care with comprehensive information

Coping with the Death of a Child Darin D. Schiffman, 2019-06-19 Coping with the Death of a Child shows clinicians how to integrate various therapeutic modalities and clinical approaches to grief therapy into one comprehensive model linked to positive change This integrated model shows mental health professionals how to offer practical and emotional support to the bereaved using descriptions of treatments care protocols and guidelines Through this approach practitioners can foster interpersonal support and growth among families even when grieving styles and timing differ between individuals Clinicians and the families they treat will come away from the book with tools for recognizing distorted and pathogenic exchanges between family members for valuing the emotional elements of their individual experiences and for shifting toward solution focused activities

Children Mourning, Mourning Children Kenneth J. Doka, 2014-01-21

Based on the Hospice Foundation of America's second annual teleconference this book explores three basic themes in children's grief. Firstly it maintains that children are always developing therefore their understanding of death and their reactions to illness and loss are also multifaceted and constantly undergoing change. Secondly children grieve in ways that are both different from and similar to adults. While they may need different therapeutic approaches from their elders each loss is different and the grief experience will be affected by many of the same factors that affect adults. Thirdly it holds that they need significant support as they grieve. Talking to children about loss and illness is too important to wait until a crisis rather it is essential to provide opportunities to discuss loss in times that are not so emotionally laden. This book aims to demonstrate that open communication between parents and children will lead to skills and understanding that are essential to the child for coping with loss and reaffirming that death is part of the process of living.

Self-Help That Works
 John C. Norcross Ph.D., Linda F. Campbell Ph.D., John M. Grohol PsyD, John W. Santrock Ph.D., Florin Selagea M.S., Robert Sommer Ph.D., 2013-03-05

Self help is big business but alas not always a scientific one. Self help books, websites and movies abound and are important sources of psychological advice for millions of Americans. But how can you sift through them to find the ones that work? Self Help That Works is an indispensable guide that enables readers to identify effective self help materials and distinguish them from those that are potentially misleading or even harmful. Six scientist practitioners bring careful research expertise and a dozen national studies to the task of choosing and recommending self help resources. Designed for both laypersons and mental health professionals this book critically reviews multiple types of self help resources from books and autobiographies to films, online programs, support groups and websites for 41 different behavioral disorders and life challenges. The revised edition of this award winning book now features online self help resources, expanded content and new chapters focusing on autism, bullying, chronic pain, GLB issues, happiness and nonchemical addictions. Each chapter updates the self help resources launched since the previous edition and expands the material. The final chapters provide key strategies for consumers evaluating self help as well as for professionals integrating self help into treatment. All told this updated edition of Self Help that Works evaluates more than 2,000 self help resources and brings together the collective wisdom of nearly 5,000 mental health professionals. Whether seeking self help for yourself, loved ones or patients, this is the go to research based guide with the best advice on what works.

Female Experience
 Joan Raphael-Leff, Rosine Jozef Perelberg, 1997

Female Experience brings together contributions from three generations of female psychoanalysts writing about their own experiences of working with female patients and questioning the specific determinants of female sexuality and gender identity which have become central in psychoanalytic debate. The authors represent a cross section of different theoretical orientations: Kleinian, Freudian and Independent, and also draw on varied professional backgrounds. Beginning with Freud, psychoanalysts have questioned the constraints of gender as manifested with transference and countertransference within the therapeutic process. However, explorations have focused on cross gender alliances. The contributors to this book present detailed material pertaining exclusively to the analytic relation between women The insight this book gives into female analyst s special way of listening to and understanding women s preoccupations serves to illustrate why British analysts have made such a huge contribution to the psychoanalytic gender debate in recent years The editors are both full members of the British Psycho Analytical Society and the International Psychoanalytical Association

Home Care for the High-risk Infant Elizabeth Ahmann,1996 This revised expanded edition addresses the increased interest in and demand for information about the nursing care of premature technology dependent infants once they are at home Clinical practice and research updates care plans assessment forms sample care maps and other hands on materials presented in an 8 1 2 x 11 format make this a practical tool as well as a textbook
