The Monumental Cemeteries Of Prehistoric Europe:

The Monumental Cemeteries of Prehistoric Europe Magdalena S. Midgley, 2005 Drawing on archaeological evidence Magdalena Midgley explores the cultural and social shifts from the late Mesolithic hunter gatherers to early farming communities Emphasizing the importance of ceremonial and monumental landscapes as points of social interaction and the focus of beliefs she examines the location construction internal arrangement graves and burials grave goods human remains and ritual treatment of the deceased The Megalithic Architectures of Europe Luc Laporte, Chris Scarre, 2015-12-31 Megalithic monuments are among the most striking remains of the Neolithic period of northern and western Europe and are scattered across landscapes from Pomerania to Portugal Antiquarians and archaeologists early recognized the family resemblance of the different groups of tombs attributing them to maritime peoples moving along the western seaways More recent research sees them rather as the product of established early farming communities in their individual regions Yet the diversity of the tombs their chronologies and their varied cultural contexts complicates any straightforward understanding of their origins and distribution Megalithic Architectures provides new insight by focusing on the construction and design of European megalithic tombs on the tomb as an architectural project It shows how much is to be learned from detailed attention to the stages and the techniques through which tombs were built modified and enlarged and often intentionally dismantled or decommissioned The large slabs that were employed often unshaped may suggest an opportunistic approach by the Neolithic builders but this was clearly far from the case Each building project was unique and detailed study of individual sites exposes the way in which tombs were built as architectural social and symbolic undertakings Alongside the manner in which the materials were used it reveals a store of knowledge that sometimes differed considerably from one structure to another even between contemporary monuments within a single region The volume brings together regional specialists from Scandinavia Germany Britain France Belgium and Iberia to offer a series of uniquely authoritative studies Results of recent fieldwork are fully incorporated and much of the material is published here for the first time in English It provides an invaluable overview of the current state of research on European megalithic tombs The Megaliths of Northern Europe Magdalena Midgley, 2008-07 The North European megaliths are among the most enduring structures built in prehistory they are imbued with symbolic meanings which embody physical and conceptual ideas about the nature of the world inhabited by the first Northern farmers The Megaliths of Northern Europe provides a much needed up to date synthesis of the material available on these monuments incorporating the results of recent research in Holland Germany Denmark and Sweden This research has brought to light new data on the construction of the megaliths and their role in the cultural landscape and Magdalena Midgley offers a fascinating interpretation of the symbolism of megalithic tombs within the context of early farming communities This wealth of new evidence suggests the Northern European megaliths were important foci in the wider north west European context The construction of dolmens and passage graves using huge glacial boulders demanded both great communal effort and considerable skill In addition to this technical expertise the master builders also made use of their esoteric knowledge of rituals This was expressed in the use of exotic building materials and special architectural features and in the placement of tombs within the natural and cultural landscapes creating new metaphors and images Fully illustrated this book will be of interest to both undergraduate and postgraduate students of European Prehistory Archaeology and Prehistoric Anthropology as well as architects who study ancient architecture and social anthropologists who study modern megaliths

Tracking the Neolithic House in Europe Daniela Hofmann, Jessica Smyth, 2012-12-09 The Neolithic period is noted primarily for the change from hunter gatherer societies to agriculture domestication and sedentism This change has been studied in the past by archaeologists observing the movements of plants animals and people But has not been examined by looking at the domestic architecture of the time Along with tracking the movement of sedentism Neolithic houses are also able to show researchers the beginnings of cultural identity group representation through the construction and decoration of these structures Additionally as agriculture moved west and north in this era the architecture and material culture shows this change and its significance Chapters are arranged chronologically so that authors can address differences and similarities of their region to neighboring ones To ensure continuity authors have framed the chapters around the following considerations construction materials and architectural characteristics how houses facilitated or perpetuated

Monumentalising Life in the Neolithic Anne Birgitte Gebaer, Lasse Sørensen, Anne Teather, António Carlos Valera, 2020-09-30 One of the principal characteristics of the European Neolithic is the development of monumentality in association with innovations in material culture and changes in subsistence from hunting and gathering to farming and pastoralism The papers in this volume discuss the latest insights into why monumental architecture became an integral part of early farming societies in Europe and beyond One of the topics is how we define monuments and how our arguments and recent research on temporality impacts on our interpretation of the Neolithic period Different interpretations of G bekli Tepe are examples of this discussion as well as our understanding of special landmarks such as flint mines The latest evidence on the economic and paleoenvironmental context carbon 14 dates as well as analytical methods are employed in illuminating the emergence of monumentalism in Neolithic Europe Studies are taking place on a macro and micro scale in areas as diverse as Great Britain Denmark Sweden Poland Germany the Dutch wetlands Portugal and Malta involving a range of monuments from long barrows and megalithic tombs to roundels and enclosures Transformation from a natural to a built environment by monumentalizing part of the landscape is discussed as well as changes in megalithic architecture in relation to shifts in the social structure An ethnographic study of megaliths in Nagaland discuss monument building as an act of social construction Other studies look into the role of monuments as expressions of cosmology and active loci of ceremonial performances Also a couple of papers analyse the social processes in the transformation of society in the aftermath of the initial boom in monument construction and the related changes in subsistence and social structure in northern Europe The aim of the publication is to explore different theories about the relationship between monumentality and the Neolithic way of life through these studies encompassing a wide range of types of monuments over vast areas of Europe and beyond The Oxford Handbook of the Archaeology of Death and Burial Sarah Tarlow,Liv Nilsson Stutz,2013-06-06 This Handbook reviews the state of mortuary archaeology and its practice with forty four chapters focusing on the history of the discipline and its current scientific techniques and methods Written by leading scholars in the field it derives its examples and case studies from a wide range of time periods and geographical areas

The Oxford Handbook of Neolithic Europe Chris Fowler,Jan Harding,Daniela Hofmann,2015-03-26 The Neolithic a period in which the first sedentary agrarian communities were established across much of Europe has been a key topic of archaeological research for over a century However the variety of evidence across Europe the range of languages in which research is carried out and the way research traditions in different countries have developed makes it very difficult for both students and specialists to gain an overview of continent wide trends The Oxford Handbook of Neolithic Europe provides the first comprehensive geographically extensive thematic overview of the European Neolithic from Iberia to Russia and from Norway to Malta offering both a general introduction and a clear exploration of key issues and current debates surrounding evidence and interpretation Chapters written by leading experts in the field examine topics such as the movement of plants animals ideas and people including recent trends in the application of genetics and isotope analyses cultural change from the first appearance of farming to the first metal artefacts domestic architecture subsistence material culture monuments and burial and other treatments of the dead In doing so the volume also considers the history of research and sets out agendas and themes for future work in the field Megaliths and rituals at Tustrup, Denmark Palle Eriksen,Anne Birgitte

Gebauer,Torsten Madsen,2023-12-18 The complex of megaliths near Tustrup is a prime example of the megalithic sites used by early farming communities in Stone Age Europe Excavated in the 1950s by Moesgaard Museum the site continues to hold great contemporary and scientific value Its significance relates primarily to the unusual find of a ritual complex connected to two dolmens and passage grave The question of why monumental sites played such an important role for early farming communities is currently the focus of several international studies In Denmark which boasts one of the world s largest concentrations of megalithic monuments as well as a strong tradition for research in the area archaeologists have had a longstanding wish to contribute to this discussion with a comprehensive publication about the unique complex of megaliths near Tustrup Experts have researched the finds and meticulously analysed the site and its artefacts These detailed studies have led to surprising and well documented interpretations of the megalithic tombs the construction history of the ritual site and their function along with the inter relationship between the monuments Excavation of Later Prehistoric and

Roman Sites along the Route of the Newquay Strategic Road Corridor, Cornwall Andy M Jones,2019-05-10 This volume presents the results of archaeological investigations on the Newquay Strategic Road and goes on to discuss the complexity of the archaeology review the evidence for special deposits and explore evidence for the deliberate closure of buildings especially in later prehistoric and Roman period Cornwall The Cambridge World Prehistory Colin Renfrew, Paul Bahn, 2014-06-09 The Cambridge World Prehistory provides a systematic and authoritative examination of the prehistory of every region around the world from the early days of human origins in Africa two million years ago to the beginnings of written history which in some areas started only two centuries ago Written by a team of leading international scholars the volumes include both traditional topics and cutting edge approaches such as archaeolinguistics and molecular genetics and examine the essential questions of human development around the world The volumes are organised geographically exploring the evolution of hominins and their expansion from Africa as well as the formation of states and development in each region of different technologies such as seafaring metallurgy and food production The Cambridge World Prehistory reveals a rich and complex history of the world It will be an invaluable resource for any student or scholar of archaeology and related disciplines looking to research a particular topic tradition region or period within prehistory
