by tragedy In lyrical yet wrenching prose Matthew Pratt Guterl one of the children narrates a family saga of astonishing originality in which even the best intentions would prove woefully inadequate He takes us inside the clapboard house where Bob and Sheryl raised their makeshift brood in a nation riven then as now by virulent racism and xenophobia Chronicling both the humor and pathos of this experiment he opens a door to our dreams of what the idea of family might make possible In the tradition of James McBride s The Color of Water Skinfolk exposes the joys and constraints of love blood and belonging and the persistent river of racial violence in America past and present Folktales and Fairy Tales Anne E. to the present In the decades following the 1970s however critics artists and writers have repeatedly questioned such a model of national identity still fragile and in need of articulation by reading the nation from alternative perspectives such as multiculturalism environmentalism neo regionalism feminism or postcolonialism These contributors suggest that the artistic and cultural flowering Canada is experiencing at the beginning of the twenty first century is to a great extent based on the dismantlement of the images constructed to represent the nation only forty years ago Through their readings of representative primary texts their contextual analysis and their selected methodological tools the authors offer a tapestry of alternative approaches to that process of dismantlement Together they read as an unruly Penelopiad their unravelling readings self consciously interrogating Canada s lack of ghosts

Caribbean Literary Discourse Barbara Lalla, Jean D'Costa, Velma Pollard, 2014-02-15 A study of the multicultural multilingual and Creolized languages that characterize Caribbean discourse especially as reflected in the language choices that preoccupy creative writers Caribbean Literary Discourse opens the challenging world of language choices and literary experiments characteristic of the multicultural and multilingual Caribbean In these societies the language of the master English in Jamaica and Barbados overlies the Creole languages of the majority. As literary critics and as creative writers Barbara Lalla Jean D Costa and Velma Pollard engage historical linguistic and literary perspectives to investigate the literature bred by this complex history. They trace the rise of local languages and literatures within the English speaking Caribbean especially as reflected in the language choices of creative writers. The study engages two problems first the historical reality that standard metropolitan English established by British colonialists dominates official economic cultural and political affairs in these former colonies contesting the development of vernacular Creole and pidgin dialects even among the region's indigenous population and second the fact that literary discourse developed under such conditions has received scant attention. Caribbean Literary Discourse explores the language choices that preoccupy creative writers in whose work vernacular discourse displays its multiplicity of origins its elusive boundaries and its most vexing issues. The authors address the degree to which language choice highlights political loyalties and tensions the politics of identity self representation and nationalism the implications of code switching the ability to alternate deliberately between different languages accents or dialects for identity in postcolonial society the rich rhetorical and literary effects enabled by code switching and the difficulties of acknowledging or teaching those ranges in traditional education systems the longstanding interplay between oral and scribal culture and the predominance of intertextuality in postcolonial and diasporic literature. everyman M Shelly Conner, 2021-07-20
