National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), The Child ,1945 Authoring Autism M. Remi Yergeau,2018-01-05 In Authoring Autism M Remi Yergeau defines neurodivergence as an identity neuroqueerness rather than an impairment Using a queer theory framework Yergeau notes the stereotypes that deny autistic people their humanity and the chance to define themselves while also challenging cognitive studies scholarship and its reification of the neurological passivity of autistics They also critique early intensive behavioral interventions which have much in common with gay conversion therapy and questions the ableist privileging of intentionality and diplomacy in rhetorical traditions

Using storying as their method they present an alternative view of autistic rhetoricity by foregrounding the cunning rhetorical abilities of autistics and by framing autism as a narrative condition wherein autistics are the best equipped people to define their experience. Contending that autism represents a queer way of being that simultaneously embraces and rejects the rhetorical Yergeau shows how autistic people queer the lines of rhetoric, humanity and agency. In so doing they demonstrate how an autistic rhetoric requires the reconceptualization of rhetoric's very essence.

A Field Guide to Cross-Cultural Research on Childhood Learning Sheina Lew-Levy, Stephen Asatsa, 2025-05-09 This volume addresses the critical gaps in developmental research on childhood learning by advocating for a more inclusive and cross-cultural approach. Recent studies highlight a concerning over-reliance on data from post-industrialized western countries, raising questions about the broader applicability of findings. This book seeks to provide a comprehensive solution, bridging the gap between theory and practice. It offers a unique guide for researchers by combining interdisciplinary perspectives from anthropology, psychology, education and beyond. With over 60 contributors from 21 countries, the book weaves together diverse cultural insights, challenging the narrow scope of traditional research. Each chapter features multiple perspectives, creating a coherent and thoughtful discussion of essential topics such as cultural learning, childhood and the historical and social forces shaping development. A Field Guide to Cross Cultural Research on Childhood Learning goes beyond theoretical discussions by offering practical advice on fieldwork ethics and engaging policymakers. By centering marginalized voices and emphasizing community agency, it strives to democratize developmental research. The format is innovative, merging the breadth of encyclopedic entries with the depth of cohesive chapters. Moreover, personal reflections and photographs embedded in the book will give readers a window into the experiences of those involved in cross-cultural research on children. This accessible, academically rigorous volume is a must-read for scholars seeking to advance inclusive and sustainable research on childhood learning and anybody interested in child development in a worldwide perspective.

Analysis of Temperate Forest Ecosystems D.E. Reichle, 2013-11-11 A series of concise books, each by one or several authors, will provide prompt world-wide information on approaches to analyzing ecological systems and their interacting parts. Syntheses of results in turn will illustrate the effectiveness and the limitations of current knowledge. This series aims to help overcome the fragmentation of our understanding about natural and managed landscapes and water about man and the many other organisms which depend on these environments. We may sometimes seem complacent that our environment has supported many civilizations fairly well better in some parts of the Earth than in others. Modern technology has mastered some difficulties but creates new ones faster than we anticipate. Pressures of human and other animal populations now highlight complex ecological problems of practical importance and theoretical scientific interest. In every climatic biotic zone, changes in plants, soils, waters, air and other resources which support life are accelerating. Such changes engulf not only regions already crowded or exploited. They spill over into more natural areas where contrasting choices for future use should remain open to our descendents where Nature's own balances and imbalances can be interpreted by imaginative research and need to be
