Lookout, 2008 Thinking Like a Mountain Susan L. Flader, 1994-08-01 When initially published more than twenty years ago Thinking Like a Mountain was the first of a handful of efforts to capture the work and thought of America's most significant environmental thinker Aldo Leopold This new edition of Susan Flader's masterful account of Leopold's philosophical journey including a new preface reviewing recent Leopold scholarship makes this classic case study available again and brings much deserved attention to the continuing influence and importance of Leopold today Thinking Like a Mountain unfolds with Flader's close analysis of Leopold's essay of the same title which explores issues of predation by studying the interrelationships between deer wolves and forests Flader shows how his approach to wildlife management and species preservation evolved from his experiences restoring the deer population in the Southwestern United States his study of the German system of forest and wildlife management and his efforts to combat the overpopulation of deer in Wisconsin His own intellectual development parallels the formation of the conservation movement reflecting his struggle to understand the relationship between the land and its human and animal inhabitants Drawing from the entire corpus of Leopold's works including published and unpublished writing correspondence field notes and journals Flader places Leopold in his historical context In addition a biographical sketch draws on personal interviews with family friends and colleagues to illuminate his many roles as scientist philosopher citizen policy maker and teacher Flader's insight and profound appreciation of the issues make Thinking Like a Mountain a standard source for readers interested in Leopold scholarship and the development of ecology and conservation in the twentieth century Mountain Timberlines Friedrich-Karl Holtmeier, 2009-03-15 For more than 40 years I have been engaged in timberline research Thus one could suppose that writing this book should not have been too difficult It was harder however than expected and in the end I felt that more questions had arisen than could be answered within its pages Perhaps it would have been easier to write the book 30 years ago and then leave the subject to mature Lastly it was the late Prof Heinz Ellenberg who had convinced me to portray a much needed and complete picture of what we know of the timberline with special respect to its great physiognomic structural and ecological variety The first version of this book was published in the German language Holtmeier 2000 Nevertheless I was very delighted when Prof Martin Beniston encouraged me to prepare an English edition for the series Advances in Global Change Research which guaranteed a wider circulation Timberline is a worldwide and very heterogeneous phenomenon which can only be presented by way of examples My own field experience is necessarily limited to certain timberline areas such as the Alps northern Scandinavia northern Finland and many high mountain ranges in the western United States and Canada However my own observations and the results of my and my previous collaborators research were essential for developing the concept of the book and became integrated into the picture of timberline that is presented in the following chapters Urban Mountain Waterscapes in Leh, Indian Trans-Himalaya Judith Müller, 2022-11-16 The city of Leh is located in the high mountain desert of Ladakh in the Indian Himalayas and access to water has always been limited there In recent years the town has experienced high rates of urbanisation on the one hand and tourist numbers have increased exponentially on the other which has implications for the water supply of the people living there Through several years of on site research challenges on various levels were documented and current governance approaches were analysed This research forms the basis for future approaches to sustainable development Rocky Mountain Druggist, 1900 Research Paper RMRS, 1998

Reforestation Trials and Secondary Succession with Three Levels of Overstory Shade in the Grand Fir Mosaic Ecosystem Dennis E. Ferguson, 2005 Grand Fir Mosaic habitats are difficult to regenerate because of pocket gophers Thomomys talpoides and successional plant communities dominated by bracken fern Pteridium aquilinum and western coneflower Rudbeckia occidentalis This study tested reforestation practices recommended by previous research tested hypotheses about the effects of overstory shade on regeneration success and documented secondary succession Natural regeneration is not a reliable reforestation method on Grand Fir Mosaic sites Clearcut and planting was the best regeneration method if pocket gophers are controlled Partial cutting and planting was the best regeneration method if pocket gophers were not controlled Most gopher caused seedling mortality occurred the first summer first winter and second winter after planting The clearcut treatment resulted in the loss of shrub species and the dominance of bracken fern and or western coneflower In the partial cut treatment shrubs were retained and there was less bracken fern and or western coneflower than in the clearcut treatment The Christian Union Henry Ward Beecher, 1893 Die at the Right Time! New Developments in the Biology of Chrysomelidae Pierre Jolivet, Jorge Santiago-Blay, Michael Schmitt, 2021-10-25 This book summarizes what is actually known about the biology of Leaf Beetles It is the most recent study in the field As we are well aware Chrysomelidae one of the three largest families of beetles are of great economic importance since they can be a serious pest to crops or on the other hand can be used to destroy imported weeds This is due to the selectivity of their feeding preferences In this way Chrysomelidae are an invaluable tool for studying plant selection mechanisms The many and varied topics dealt with in this book cover almost all aspects of phylogeny classification paleontology parasitology biogeography defenses population biology genetics and biological control as well as many other subjects The most renowned specialists in these fields have been chosen to put together a diverse state of the art publication Few beetle families have been studied in such detail as the Chrysomelids This is not only due to their economic importance but also to their incredible variety of forms and behaviors There are no less than 40 000 species currently in existence worldwide but probably 100 000 species have existed since the Jurassic when they first came into being with the Cycadoids and other primitive plant families later to diversify during the Cretaceous with the advent of flowering plants

The Mountain Lion Jean Stafford, 2010-08-10 Eight year old Molly and her ten year old brother Ralph are inseparable in league with each other against the stodgy and stupid routines of school and daily life against their prim mother and prissy older sisters against the world of authority and perhaps the world itself One summer they are sent from the genteel Los Angeles suburb that is their home to backcountry Colorado where their uncle Claude has a ranch There the children encounter an enchanting new world savage direct beautiful untamed to which over the next few years they will return regularly enjoying a delicious double life And yet at the same time this other sphere about which they are both so passionate threatens to come between their passionate attachment to each other Molly dreams of growing up to be a writer yet clings ever more fiercely to the special world of childhood Ralph for his part feels the growing challenge and appeal of impending manhood Youth and innocence are hurtling toward a devastating end
