To Drink from the Silver Cup Anna Redsand, 2020-08-08 Anna Redsand was sixteen when she heard her mother say of two women who'd been discovered to be lovers They're living in sin They should see a doctor She knew in that moment that she would have to leave the security and intimacy of family church and home the only world she had ever known As that world faded so too did everything that had been religious or spiritual inside her The journey was to find what she'd lost or replace it Was there a faith community that could accept Anna as a lesbian a doubter and someone committed to social justice To Drink From the Silver Cup is the story of Anna Redsand's quest It took her from a devout missionary life in the Navajo Nation into the shame and exile of being unwanted in the homeland and then beyond through the uncharted territory of different religious spiritual and political directions Always striving for authenticity continuing to long for home forty years after taking leave Anna embarked on a deliberate experiment to see if return was possible or whether too much had changed in her and too little in

Bulletin - Bureau of Education United States. Bureau of Education,1939 A Forgotten Landscape: How A Place

Called Crockett's Corner Became The Maine Mall M.M. Drymon PhD, 2015-10-25 A place called Crockett's Corner began as a seventeenth century colonial settlement that grew into a stable and sustainable nineteenth century American agrarian landscape. During the twentieth century in a rapid but staged process the landscape was changed into an edge city. These changes were the direct result especially after 1938 of prevailing public policies which acted to constrain some land uses while supporting others. Landscape change has had unintended consequences including local social network destruction, historic building demolition, and unmitigated air and non point source water pollution. Raising awareness of the deep history of this place may help empower advocates for historic preservation, open space, environmental protection, and more sustainable land use practices in the future.
