The Concept of God You Should Throw Away Agung Webe, Who is God Actually this question isn't quite right Why do I say it's not right Well if you ask Who is God you will receive numerous answers according to the many names of God people believe in Or even dozens of supporting arguments from each sacred text they believe in Generally the content of these arguments about God who introduces Himself in each discussion is God's own admission almost in several scriptures repeatedly stating there I am your God I will not debate about what name or title you use for God That is your right However if you insist that the only correct name for God is the one from your tradition and all others are wrong then a simple question for you Has God ever introduced Himself directly to you by stating His name Of course not right You know and believe in that name from your religious scripture And from the beginning you were forced to believe in it I apologize for using the term forced because you do not have the freedom to reject it To reject means you depart from your religious belief Whether you know it or not understand it or not feel it or not that's a matter for later What's important is the first rule to have faith in the name of God believed in within the religious tradition you follow Then you are merely guided to follow a list that explains about God God's attributes what God likes and dislikes other names for God God's role what will be given as rewards and punishments by God All these things are ready for you to read Ready for use for all of you Again there is nothing wrong as long as you do not force others to believe what you believe In this writing I am merely providing my perspective I do not ask you to agree with my writings We can discuss and share perspectives but not blame and force which one is most correct When you declare arguments that state your view is the most correct what happens is not sharing perspectives but arguing fiercely And when you are blinded by your belief in your most correct argument then any other perspective will seem wrong to you
