Smith, Jr., 2017-05-16 A Scottish immigrant to Illinois, Joseph Brown made his pre-Civil War fortune as a miller and steamboat captain who dabbled in riverboat design and the politics of small towns. When war erupted, he used his connections, including a friendship with Abraham Lincoln, to obtain contracts to build three ironclad gunboats for the U.S. War Department: the Chillicothe, Indianola, and Tuscumbia. Often described as failures, these vessels were active in some of the most ferocious river fighting of the 1863 Vicksburg campaign. Navies in Modern World History Lawrence Sondhaus, 2004-05-04 Navies in Modern World History traces the role of navies in world history from the early nineteenth century through both World Wars to the onset of the twenty-first century. Lawrence Sondhaus examines the navies of Britain, France, Germany, the United States, Japan, Brazil, Chile, and the Soviet Union, demonstrating the variety of ways in which these countries have made decisive use of naval power and the challenges these navies faced when assembling equipment and stores, training sailors, and undertaking various missions, and shows in what ways the results helped change the course of modern world history. This book also deals with aircraft carrier design and naval aviation in the second half of the twentieth century and the leading role of navies and shipbuilders in key technological innovations of the nineteenth century and early twentieth, including advances in steam power, armour, guns, and torpedoes. Today, technological breakthroughs are centred around naval stealth and maritime propulsion systems. Special attention is devoted to the evolving state of naval technology, showing how the relative industrial capabilities of seafaring countries have been reflected in their maritime building programmes, providing an important link between the evolution of modern national fleets and the broader history of the period.
