Piles of Slain, Heaps of Corpses Jacob Onyumbé Wenyi,2021-06-02 Piles of Slain Heaps of Corpses reads the violence in the book of Nahum against the background of the war in the Democratic Republic of the Congo and tries to show how this violent book can be therapeutic and transformative for wounded communities Here Jacob Onyumbé views Nahum through four scholarly lenses poetic analysis study of Assyrian iconography related to eighth and seventh century Judah ethnographic research among survivors of war in the Democratic Republic of the Congo and modern studies on the impact of war trauma on communities of survivors He argues that Nahum uses lyric poetry so as to evoke in seventh century BCE Judahite audiences the memory of war and destruction at the hands of the Assyrians The prophet uses poetry to evoke rather than narrate in order to bring comfort to his audience by revealing the powerful presence of God in the conditions of traumatic violence Viewed thus the book of Nahum cannot be dismissed as has commonly been the case among both scholars and general readers as irrelevant or merely vindictive On the contrary this book with its depiction of a vengeful God and repulsive war scenes is essential especially for traumatized communities

The Temporal Dimension of Justice Santiago Truccone,2024-10-21 Should historical injustices always be repaired Upon scrutinising public institutions and present holdings it becomes evident that many are partially the result of past injustices Consequently the imperative to rectify and repair historical injustices emerges However as circumstances change over time and these changes affect justice the argument for repairing historical injustices becomes more intricate The distributive and reparative aspects of justice may be in tension with each other Possible tensions between these aspects of justice are assessed by discussing the thesis about the supersession of historical injustices Different facets of the supersession thesis are evaluated in two contexts The first context explored in the initial part of the book examines whether and if so under what conditions post colonial injustices against 19th century Latin American indigenous peoples should be repaired The second context explored later in the book assesses how climate burdens should be distributed globally and how to respond to potential injustices arising from departures from a fair climate transition towards net zero CO2 emissions societies The book demonstrates that repairing historical injustices is compatible with the imperatives of distributive justice
