By David J. Henderson, Editor

Researchers at the University of California, San Diego, have developed a system aimed at preventing infections in patients who are on ventilators.

The system, called the "Ventilator Infection Prevention System" (VIPS), is designed to prevent the growth of bacteria on the ventilator circuit.

The system is based on a new type of ventilator circuit that is made of a material that is resistant to bacterial growth.

The system is currently being tested in a clinical trial at the University of California, San Diego.
