The Comprehensive High S:

The Comprehensive Public High School G. Sherington, Craig Campbell, 2006-02-04 This book traces the decline of the public comprehensive high school New educational markets emphasized school diversity and parental choice rather than social equity through common schooling and they were criticized for declining standards The book also considers government education policies and their regional manifestations The Comprehensive High School Today Floyd M. Hammack, 2004 Hammack has gathered a distinguished group to assess current reform efforts in their sociological and historical context taking into account the vision of James B Conant the major proponent of the comprehensive high schools Contributors are Mary Erina Driscoll Joseph P McDonald Jeannie Oakes John L Rury Roger Shouse Amy Suart Wells The Comprehensive High School James Bryant Conant, 1967 The Failed Promise of the American High School, 1890-1995 David L. Angus, Jeffrey Mirel, 1999 This provocative new study of the American high school examines the historical debates about curriculum policy and also traces changes in the institution itself as evidenced by what students actually studied Contrary to conventional accounts the authors argue that beginning in the 1930s American high schools shifted from institutions primarily concerned with academic and vocational education to institutions mainly focused on custodial care of adolescents Claiming that these changes reflected educators racial class and gender biases the authors offer original suggestions for policy adjustments that may lead to greater educational equality for our ever growing and ever more diverse population of students The Comprehensive High School, 1960 The Productive High School Joseph Murphy, 2001-02-20 Murphy and his colleagues discuss how reform based on empirical evidence and a robust set of theories can create productive high schools for all students Focus is on core technologies of learning and teaching organizational systems and institutional linkages between schools and their environments Using current research and case studies from successful schools they show how to construct models of learning driven school communities that encourage excellence Key concepts cover defining the learning imperative developing humanized and intellectual relationships for learning laying the groundwork for dynamic adaptive change and building linkages with home and family Vocational and Occupational Education United States. Congress. House. Committee on Education and Labor. Subcommittee on Elementary, Secondary, and Vocational Education, 1975 Bulletin National Society for Vocational Education, 1920 The American Secondary School Leonard V. Koos, 1927 Selected references at end of each chapter The Power of Anticipatory Images in Student Achievement James M. Davy, 2020-10-03 This book features ten high academically achieving low income inner city students from Newark New Jersey who graduated from public high schools at or near the top of their class and continued to excel in college Using a qualitative research design the author interviewed the ten students and the person who most influenced their educational progress about what motivated them to achieve at such high levels Three mutually reinforcing anticipatory images emerged as a common element of their stories In their own voices the students describe the anticipatory images they framed how they developed them and how they used them to their advantage Davy advances a theoretical model of the Anticipatory Competent student who continually progresses in the directions of the images projected ahead Hearings, Reports and Prints of the House Committee on Education and Labor United States.
