Sociology Of The City:

The Sociology of the City Sandor Halebsky, 1973      Being Urban David A. Karp, Gregory Prentice Stone, William C. Yoels, 1991-06-30 This volume examines the dynamic interplay between what theoretical perceptions tell us about urban life and how ordinary people interpret and respond to the actual experience of living in cities Major focuses are the primacy of social interaction for an understanding of urban life and the strategies people use to create community in environments which many theorists believe promote only alienation and social disintegration This new edition incorporates a strongly interdisciplinary perspective and includes new chapters on significant topics that have received little critical attention in the field

The City Robert E. Park, Ernest W. Burgess, 2019-04-15 First published in 1925 The City is a trailblazing text in urban history urban sociology and urban studies Its innovative combination of ethnographic observation and social science theory epitomized the Chicago school of sociology Robert E Park Ernest W Burgess and their collaborators were among the first to document the interplay between urban individuals and larger social structures and institutions seeking patterns within the city s riot of people events and influences As sociologist Robert J Sampson notes in his new foreword though much has changed since The City was first published we can still benefit from its charge to explain where and why individuals and social groups live as they do

Greer, The Emerging City was written at a time when the great transformation from urban to suburban lifestyle was under way It is a tribute to Scott Greer that his work understood the new contours of the city and also well appreciated that far from spelling the end of urban life the new developments in communication and transportation only served to change the social and political structure of modern societies Greer established the principle that in urban affairs public policy follows the market The task of this fine work was to chart just how this flow took place A careful researcher and writer Scott Greer herein poses the largest questions of urban existence What needs for fellowship and freedom are bedrock What is gained and what is lost as urbanization unfolds Can one speak of certain urban arrangements as good or bad for humans The Emerging City attempts a theory of society within which the changing city could be interpreted at the social, political, and symbolic levels The modern city is no longer an autonomous unit but very much a part of, often at the center of, national and even international developments As Janet Abu Lughod points out in her sharp introduction most of the themes that are now in common usage owe their beginnings to Scott Greer. What Greer has attempted to do is to attack the perennial problems of modern urban society: traffic, suburban sprawl, the atomization of social relations, political leadership and the decline of the central city from a fresh point of view. He manages to make more sense out of the exasperating yet fascinating problems of modern urban life than any other book this reviewer has seen in some time.

E. Digby Baltzell, Administrative Science Quarterly, Greer first destroys images of the city as conceived by political scientists, urban sociologists and economists and produces a new and more complete one which has far more relevance to reality.

Reader Malcolm Miles, Tim Hall, Iain Borden, 2004. Cities are products of culture and sites where culture is made. By presenting the best of classic and contemporary writing on the culture of cities, this reader provides an overview of the diverse material on the interface between cities and culture.

City and Region Robert E. Dickinson, Robert Eric Dickinson, 1998. First Published in 1998. Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis, an informal company.

The Second Generation of Italians in New York City John Horace Mariano, 1921      Writings on Cities Henri Lefebvre, 1996-01-09.

The work of Henri Lefebvre, the only major French intellectual of the post-war period to give extensive consideration to the city and urban life, received considerable attention among both academics and practitioners of the built environment following the publication in English of The Production of Space. This new collection brings together for the first time in English Lefebvre's reflections on the city and urban life written over a span of some twenty years. The selection of writings is contextualized by an introduction itself a significant contribution to the interpretation of Henri Lefebvre's work which places the material within the context of Lefebvre's intellectual and political life and times and raises pertinent issues as to their relevance for contemporary debates over such questions as the nature of urban reality, the production of space and modernity.

Writings on Cities is of particular relevance to architects, planners, geographers and those interested in the philosophical and political understanding of contemporary life.

The Promise of the City Kian Tajbakhsh, 2000-12-03. The Promise of the City proposes a new theoretical framework for the study of cities and urban life. Finding the contemporary urban scene too complex to be captured by radical or conventional approaches, Kian Tajbakhsh offers a threefold interdisciplinary approach linking agency, space and structure. First, he says urban identities cannot be understood through individualistic, communitarian or class perspectives but rather through the shifting spectrum of cultural, political and economic influences. Second, the layered, unfinished city spaces we inhabit and within which we create meaning are best represented not by the image of bounded physical spaces but rather by overlapping and shifting boundaries. And third, the macro forces shaping urban society include bureaucratic and governmental interventions not captured by a purely economic paradigm. Tajbakhsh examines these dimensions in the work of three major critical urban theorists of recent decades: Manuel Castells, David Harvey and Ira Katznelson. He shows why the answers offered by Marxian urban theory to the questions of identity, space and structure are unsatisfactory and why the perspectives of other intellectual traditions such as poststructuralism feminism Habermasian Critical Theory and pragmatism can help us better understand the challenges facing contemporary cities
