Buddhism, Diplomacy, and Trade Tansen Sen, 2015-09-11 Relations between China and India underwent a dramatic transformation from Buddhist dominated to commerce centered exchanges in the seventh to fifteenth centuries The unfolding of this transformation its causes and wider ramifications are examined in this masterful analysis of the changing patterns of the interaction between the two most important cultural spheres in Asia Tansen Sen offers a new perspective on Sino Indian relations during the Tang dynasty 618 907 arguing that the period is notable not only for religious and diplomatic exchanges but also for the process through which China emerged as a center of Buddhist learning practice and pilgrimage Before the seventh century the Chinese clergy given the spatial gap between the sacred Buddhist world of India and the peripheral China suffered from a borderland complex A close look at the evolving practice of relic veneration in China at Famen Monastery in particular the exposition of Mount Wutai as an abode of the bodhisattva Ma jusri and the propagation of the idea of Maitreya s descent in China however reveals that by the eighth century China had overcome its complex and successfully established a Buddhist realm within its borders The emergence of China as a center of Buddhism had profound implications on religious interactions between the two countries and is cited by Sen as one of the main causes for the weakening of China s spiritual attraction toward India At the same time the growth of indigenous Chinese Buddhist schools and teachings retrenched the need for doctrinal input from India A detailed examination of the failure of Buddhist translations produced during the Song dynasty 960 1279 demonstrates that these developments were responsible for the unraveling of religious bonds between the two countries and the termination of the Buddhist phase of Sino Indian relations Sen proposes that changes in religious interactions were paralleled by changes in commercial exchanges For most of the first millennium trading activities between India and China were closely connected with and sustained through the transmission of Buddhist doctrines The eleventh and twelfth centuries however witnessed dramatic changes in the patterns and structure of mercantile activity between the two countries Secular bulk and luxury goods replaced Buddhist ritual items maritime channels replaced the overland Silk Road as the most profitable conduits of commercial exchange and many of the merchants involved were followers of Islam rather than Buddhism Moreover policies to encourage foreign trade instituted by the Chinese government and the Indian kingdoms contributed to the intensification of commercial activity between the two countries and transformed the China India trading circuit into a key segment of cross continental commerce

Land and Trade in Early Islam Hugh Kennedy, Fanny Bessard, 2025-01-20 Land and Trade in Early Islam discusses the latest developments in the field of early Islamic economic and social history and explores the notion of polycentrism and the dialectic between global and local between 700 and 1050 CE The volume explores the political mechanisms and the role of Islamic states in regulating and developing demand in the economy The chapters question the binary of core periphery and demonstrate how the growing scholarship on the liminal regions of the Caliphate has transformed our understanding of the early Islamic world by offering a more nuanced picture of its regional urban and socio economic dynamics Changes in the peripheries of the early medieval Caliphate have traditionally been conceived as resulting from initiatives by the core An increased focus on the comparatively under explored regions in central Asia north Africa south east Asia and the Caucasus has thrown this into question Land and Trade in Early Islam draws on this growing body of scholarship to question the notion of peripherality explore lines of economic influence and interdependence and to better understand the regional economic social and political dynamics of this period

Beyond Borders Ashish Kumar, 2023-10-30 This book examines the economic history of ancient South Asia by situating the Malwa region of Central India within Afro Eurasian trade networks to illuminate the role of traders in the political religious and economic processes connected with the Indo Sasanian trade in the period of five centuries circa CE 300 700 The book challenges the long held centrality of the Roman factor in the South Asian economy by locating the Indo Sasanian interactions in long distance economic networks with trade as a central feature It considers the role and influence of traders as an understudied group affecting the contribution of the Indian economy to the world system Amidst rapidly changing political landscapes traders of Indian and Sasanian origins are studied as conscious political beings who formed ties with varieties of polities and religious communities to secure their commercial interests In addition their commercial interactions with their Sogdian Central Asia and Aksumite East Africa counterparts are analyzed The book also considers the nature of trade routes and the specific connections between mercantile and religious networks including patterns of construction of religious shrines and temples along trade routes Integrating epigraphic numismatic literary and archaeological evidence this book moves away from a marginal treatment of the Indo Sasanian trade in Indian history and demonstrates how regional economic history must address a plurality of causes actors and processes in its assessment of the regional economy The book will be of interest to students and academics of Indian economic history as well as the ancient economies of South Asia more broadly

The Silk Road Valerie Hansen, 2017 The Silk Road We have a hazy mental image a lone traveler carrying silk on a camel moves along a desert Where exactly is he going and what goods is he carrying This book offers concrete answers based on newly discovered documents preserved in the sands of the Taklamakan Desert It is amazing what has been dug up and how the new materials both documents and artifacts radically challenge our understanding of the Silk Road Historians have only recently begun to piece together and make sense of these materials which give a far clearer picture of actual Silk Road Placing these documentary finds at the heart of the narrative this book also tells the story of the different explorers who found these documents and it teases out the implications of these documents for our understanding of the Silk Road We learn for example that the Silk Road was not really a road and that no one used the term Silk Road in the past The book focuses on the seven most important Silk Road sites that have produced document and objects from the Silk Road Six Niya Kucha Turfan Dunhuang Khotan and Xi an are located in northwest China the seventh Samarkand is in modern Uzbekistan This college edition includes a selection of excerpted primary sources in each chapter The range is enormous memoirs of medieval Chinese monks and modern explorers letters written by women descriptions of towns language learning materials for traveling monks and contracts among others Instructors can select the documents they find most interesting to discuss in class students can use these materials write papers Many of these are difficult to find and the author has checked all the translations to enhance their readability The college edition also includes a new final chapter that examines the Silk Road during the period of Mongol rule to c 1400 CE

The Silk Road British Library,2004 The Lost Archive Marina Rustow,2020-01-14 A compelling look at the Fatimid caliphate s robust culture of documentation The lost archive of the Fatimid caliphate 909 1171 survived in an unexpected place the storage room or geniza of a synagogue in Cairo recycled as scrap paper and deposited there by medieval Jews Marina Rustow tells the story of this extraordinary find inviting us to reconsider the longstanding but mistaken consensus that before 1500 the dynasties of the Islamic Middle East produced few documents and preserved even fewer Beginning with government documents before the Fatimids and paper s westward spread across Asia Rustow reveals a millennial tradition of state record keeping whose very continuities suggest the strength of Middle Eastern institutions not their weakness Tracing the complex routes by which Arabic documents made their way from Fatimid palace officials to Jewish scribes the book provides a rare window onto a robust culture of documentation and archiving not only comparable to that of medieval Europe but in many cases surpassing it Above all Rustow argues that the problem of archives in the medieval Middle East lies not with the region s administrative culture but with our failure to understand preindustrial documentary ecology Illustrated with stunning examples from the Cairo Geniza this compelling book advances our understanding of documents as physical artifacts showing how the records of the Fatimid caliphate once recovered deciphered and studied can help change our thinking about the medieval Islamic world and about premodern polities more broadly The King's Road Xin Wen,2023-01-24 An exciting and richly detailed new history of the Silk Road that tells how it became more important as a route for diplomacy than for trade The King s Road offers a new interpretation of the history of the Silk Road emphasizing its importance as a diplomatic route rather than a commercial one Tracing the arduous journeys of diplomatic envoys Xin Wen presents a rich social history of long distance travel that played out in deserts post stations palaces and polo fields The book tells the story of the everyday lives of diplomatic travelers on the Silk Road what they ate and drank the gifts they carried and the animals that accompanied them and how they navigated a complex web of geographic cultural and linguistic boundaries It also describes the risks and dangers envoys faced along the way from financial catastrophe to robbery and murder Using documents unearthed from the famous Dunhuang library cave in Western China The King s Road paints a detailed picture of the intricate network of trans Eurasian transportation and communication routes that was established between 850 and 1000 CE By exploring the motivations of the kings who dispatched envoys along the Silk Road and describing the transformative social and economic effects of their journeys the book reveals the inner workings of an interstate network distinct from the Sino centric tributary system In shifting the narrative of the Silk Road from the transport of commodities to the exchange of diplomatic gifts and personnel The King s Road puts the history of Eastern Eurasia in a new light

India,

China, and the World Tansen Sen, 2017-09-15 This pathbreaking study provides the first comprehensive examination of India China interactions in the broader contexts of Asian and world history By focusing on material exchanges transmissions of knowledge and technologies networks of exchange during the colonial period and little known facets of interactions between the Republic of India and the People s Republic of China Tansen Sen argues convincingly that the analysis of India China connections must extend beyond the traditional frameworks of nation states or bilateralism Instead he demonstrates that a wide canvas of space people objects and timeframe is needed to fully comprehend the interactions between India and China in the past and during the contemporary period Considering as well the contributions of people and groups from beyond India and China Sen also explores the interactions between Indians and Chinese outside the Asian continent The author s formidable array of sources pulled from archives and libraries around the world range from Chinese travel accounts to Indian intelligence reports Examining the connected histories of the two regions Sen fills a striking gap in the study of India and China in a global setting

Transnationalism in Ancient and Medieval Societies Michael C. Howard, 2014-01-10 While scholars have long documented the migration of people in ancient and medieval times they have paid less attention to those who traveled across borders with some regularity This study of early transnational relations explores the routine interaction of people across the boundaries of empires tribal confederacies kingdoms and city states paying particular attention to the role of long distance trade along the Silk Road and maritime trade routes It examines the obstacles voyagers faced including limited travel and communication capabilities relatively poor geographical knowledge and the dangers of a fragmented and shifting political landscape and offers profiles of better known transnational elites such as the Hellenic scholar Herodotus and the Venetian merchant Marco Polo as well lesser known servants merchants and sailors By revealing the important political economic and cultural role cross border trade and travel played in ancient society this work demonstrates that transnationalism is not unique to modern times Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here

World Order in Late Antiquity Kevin Blachford, 2024-11-07 The East Romans of Byzantium and the Sasanian Persians competed as geopolitical rivals for over four centuries between 224 to 628 AD Through a series of intractable conflicts these two great empires would develop a dual hierarchy that sought to divide the known world between them Despite competing claims to universal rule mutual spheres of interest arose as both empires sought to create rules norms and standard practices of diplomatic behaviour to regulate their inter imperial rivalry Defined by contemporaries as the Two Eyes of the Earth this suzerain order aimed to hierarchically organize those considered as barbarians This period of late antiquity is rarely considered within the discipline of International Relations IR but through an English School approach Blachford examines the diverse suzerain order of late antiquity as barbarous nomadic tribes challenged the hierarchical ambitions of two rival empires who both claimed a unique role in the maintenance of world order
