Soldier Poets of the Great War, 1988 Poetry of the First World War Tim Kendall, 2013-10-10 The First World War produced an extraordinary flowering of poetic talent poets whose words commemorate the conflict more personally and as enduringly as monuments in stone Lines such as What passing bells for these who die as cattle and They shall grow not old as we that are left grow old have come to express the feelings of a nation about the horrors and aftermath of war This new anthology provides a definitive record of the achievements of the Great War poets As well as offering generous selections from the celebrated soldier poets including Wilfred Owen Siegfried Sassoon Rupert Brooke and Ivor Gurney it also incorporates less well known writing by civilian and women poets Music hall and trench songs provide a further lyrical perspective on the War A general introduction charts the history of the war poets reception and challenges prevailing myths about the war poets progress from idealism to bitterness The work of each poet is prefaced with a biographical account that sets the poems in their historical context Although the War has now passed out of living memory its haunting of our language and culture has not been exorcised Its poetry survives because it continues to speak to and about us

The Great War in Irish Poetry Fran

Brearton, 2003 The Great War in Irish Poetry explores the impact of the First World War on the work of W B Yeats Robert Graves and Louis MacNeice in the period 1914-45 and on three contemporary Northern Irish poets Derek Mahon Seamus Heaney and Michael Longley Its concern is to place their work and memory of the Great War in the context of Irish politics and culture in the twentieth century The historical background to Irish involvement in the Great War is explained as are the ways in which issues raised in 1912-20 still reverberate in the politics of remembrance in Northern Ireland particularly through such events as the Home Rule cause the loss of the Titanic the Battle of the Somme the Easter Rising While the Great War is perceived as central to English culture and its literature holds a privileged position in the English literary canon the centrality of the Great War to Irish writing has seldom been recognised This book shows first that despite complications in Irish domestic politics which led to the repression of memory of the Great War Irish poets have been drawn throughout the century to the events and images of 1914-18 This engagement is particularly true of those writing in the troubled Northern Ireland of the last thirty years The second main concern is the extent to which recognition of the importance of the Great War in Irish writing has itself become a casualty of competing versions of the literary canon

Anthem for Doomed Youth Jon Stallworthy, 2005 Leading poet and former professor of English Literature Jon Stallworthy tells the story of the lives and work of twelve major poets of the First World War and provides selections of their best work The First World War began with flag waving parades and poets inspired by abstract ideals In part this reflected the national mood but it revealed an almost universal failure to understand what modern mass warfare would really mean The story of the war poets is also the story of an awakening to the full horror of what the twentieth century came to know as The Great War Wilfred Owen said My subject is War and the pity of War He also said true Poets must be truthful The best war poetry was the work of writers who were also serving soldiers and was born out of their desire to tell the truth about what it was to be a soldier in the trenches what it felt like what it did to you and what it did to your fellow soldiers friend or foe The greatness of the poetry lay not just in the writer s talent but in the unflinching accuracy with which it portrayed their terrible circumstances
