beyond the compilation and interpretation of empirical facts its truth being inseparable from the essential structure of society itself Adorno sees sociology not as one academic discipline among others but as an over arching discipline that impinges on all aspects of social life Tracing the history of the discipline and insisting that the historical context is constitutive of sociology itself Adorno addresses a wide range of topics including the purpose of studying sociology the relation of sociology and politics the influence of Saint Simon Comte Durkheim Weber Marx and Freud the contributions of ethnology and anthropology the relationship of method to subject matter the problems of quantitative analysis the fetishization of science and the separation of sociology and social philosophy
