Soviet Women Writing:

Lives in Transit Helena Goscilo, 1995 One of the most remarkable changes taking place in Russia after the break up of the Soviet empire is the radical transformation of Russian women's culture. Despite a historically male dominated culture, gender awareness has flourished in the 1990s and is reflected in a new body of women's literature and a new concern for female experience.

Soviet Women Writing I. Grekova, 1991 A collection of short stories by Soviet women writers; this book reveals a great deal about the concerns, feelings, and aspirations of Soviet women. This work includes writings from Lidia Ginzburg, Viktoria Tokareva, and Tatyana Tolstaya.

The Prose of Life Benjamin M. Sutcliffe, 2009-04-13 Both before and after the collapse of the Soviet Union, everyday life and the domestic sphere served as an ideological battleground simultaneously threatening Stalinist control and challenging traditional Russian gender norms that had been shaken by the Second World War. The Prose of Life examines how six female authors employed images of daily life to depict women's experience in Russian culture from the 1960s to the present. By a term connoting both the everyday and its many petty problems, is an enduring yet neglected theme in Russian literature; its very ordinariness causes many critics to ignore it. Benjamin Sutcliffe's study is the first sustained examination of how and why everyday life as a literary and philosophical category catalyzed the development of post-Stalinist Russian women's prose, particularly since the collapse of the Soviet Union. A focus on the representation of everyday life in women's prose reveals that a first generation of female writers, Natal'ia Baranskaia, Irina Grekova, both legitimated and limited their successors, Liudmila Petrushevskaiia, Tat'iana Tolstaia, Liudmila Ulitskaia, and Svetlana Vasilenko, in their choice of literary topics. The Prose of Life traces the development and intriguing ruptures of recent Russian women's prose, becoming a must read for readers interested in Russian literature and gender studies. 2009 Outstanding Academic Title, Choice Magazine.

A History of Women's Writing in Russia Adele Marie Barker, Jehanne M. Gheith, 2002-07-11 A History of Women's Writing in Russia offers a comprehensive account of the lives and works of Russia's women writers. Based on original and archival research, this volume forces a re-examination of many of the traditionally held assumptions about Russian literature and women's role in the tradition. In setting about the process of reintegrating women writers into the history of Russian literature, contributors have addressed the often surprising contexts within which women's writing has been produced. Chapters reveal a flourishing literary tradition where none was thought to exist. They redraw the map defining Russia's literary periods; they look at how Russia's women writers articulated their own experience and they reassess their relationship to the dominant male tradition. The volume is supported by extensive reference features, including a bibliography and guide to writers and their works.

Rosalind Marsh,2020-12-07 Since the late 1980s there has been an explosion of women s writing in Russia Central and Eastern Europe greater than in any other cultural period This book which contains contributions by scholars and writers from many different countries aims to address the gap in literature and debate that exists in relation to this subject We investigate why women s writing has become so prominent in post socialist countries and enquire whether writers regard their gender as a burden or on the contrary as empowering We explore the relationship in contemporary women s writing between gender class and nationality as well as issues of ethnicity and post colonialism

Mapping Experience in Polish and Russian Women's

Writing Urszula Chowaniec,2010-09-13 The volume encompasses eleven articles which discuss the critical views that Polish and Russian women writers have articulated with regard to the notion of experience and constructions of femininity in the national imagination from the 19th to the 21st centuries Major themes of the articles include women s experiences as writers in the 19th century women s embodied experiences of a traumatic past body and sexuality in the different ages of women political and aesthetic discourses and femininity Although the articles are arranged in chronological order they do not form an absolute chronological or periodic continuum i e from Romanticism to Postmodernism although references to certain aesthetic periods are made The authors of the articles reflect in detail on how the women writers and their literary texts represent different understandings and experiences in relation to dominant perceptions for example of the memory of war of motherhood of art and aesthetics and so on Readers are encouraged to seek parallels and continuities between the different historical times and spaces between women s writing in Russia and Poland between different scholarly approaches and aims

The articles of this volume bring together important critical standpoints in women's writing in Poland and Russia in which parallels continuities and resemblances can be traced but in which discontinuities breaks and differences also make themselves visible Apart from the conspicuous resemblances between individual Russian and Polish women writers works or even between groups of women writers the articles document the diversity within Russian and Polish women's writing respectively and even within individual writers

Ukrainian Women Writers and the National Imaginary Oleksandra Wallo, 2019-11-22 By writing of Ukrainian national identity from a woman centered perspective female authors from the last Soviet generation established themselves as authoritative critics of their culture and paved the way to visibility and success for their younger female literary peers
