Ned Lebow, Janice Gross Stein, 1995-07-23 In the 1980s Soviet evidence suggests the Reagan arms buildup delayed rather than hastened the accommodation Gorbachev desired for internal political reasons Both nations the authors argue expended lives and resources out of all reasonable proportion to their legitimate security interests with destabilizing consequences that persist today Soviet Military Power In A Changing World Susan L Clark, 2019-06-04 Many people have been instrumental in helping see this book through to completion First I want to thank Robbin Laird not only for his professional encouragement over the years but especially for his suggestion to do this book in the first place Nor would this effort have been possible or nearly as enjoyable without the support and friendship of Susan McEachern I would also like to thank Jackie Evans for her assistance in helping to prepare the manuscript Coercion, Cooperation, and Ethics in International Relations Richard Ned Lebow, 2007-05-07 This volume brings together the recent essays of Richard Ned Lebow one of the leading scholars of international relations and US foreign policy Lebow's work has centred on the instrumental value of ethics in foreign policy decision making and the disastrous consequences which follow when ethical standards are flouted Unlike most realists who have considered ethical considerations irrelevant in states calculations of their national interest Lebow has argued that self interest and hence national interest can only be formulated intelligently within a language of justice and morality The essays here build on this pervasive theme in Lebow's work by presenting his substantive and compelling critique of strategies of deterrence and compellence illustrating empirically and normatively how these strategies often produce results counter to those that are intended The last section of the book on counterfactuals brings together another set of related articles which continue to probe the relationship between ethics and policy They do so by exploring the contingency of events to suggest the subjective and often self fulfilling nature of the frameworks we use to evaluate policy choices
